U.S. Prepared To Celebrate Thanksgiving

Traditional Feasts, Parades, Prayers Will Mark Holiday

By The Associated Press

Thanksgiving, a day for taking stock and counting blessings, will be celebrated throughout the land Thursday with traditional feasting, parades and quiet prayer.

At Plymouth, Mass., where it all started, descendants of the Pilgrims and others will attend services in the First Church (Unitarian). Later a pageant will portray the events linked with the founding of the colony in 1620-21.

President Eisenhower and his family and grandchildren will spend the holiday at their vacation spot in Augusta, Ga.

The Macy parade in New York, now viewed by additional millions via television, again will feature gigantic balloons bobbing down Manhattan's streets and avenues — in spite of a government ban on using helium to fill them.

The Macy people and the Goodyear people, who make the balloons, put their heads together and decided to inflate the balloons with air and suspend them from huge, mobile cranes.

Pittsburgh will open a 14-month bicentennial celebration with a colorful ceremony, including a parade of 180 bagpipers, a band concert, historical speeches, and the firing of cannon. Later Pittsburghers can take in the Penn State-Pitt football game, opening event of the bicentennial sports program.

At San Diego, Calif., Dr. Frank Lowe, president of the Council of Churches, called for a large attendance at a nonsectarian Thanksgiving service in the city-owned Balboa Park, as an expression of gratitude for being able to use the park.

Automotive Genius Dies In Dayton Home

C. F. Kettering, 82, Was Famed Inventor Of Car Self-Starter

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Charles F. Kettering is dead. But if you drove your car today, you'll know he's still around in spirit. When that starter whined and turned over the motor, that was "Boss Ket" giving you a helping hand.

The 82-year-old inventor, who died in his home here Tuesday of a stroke, amassed a fortune through his genius in the automotive and other fields.

He was mostly widely acclaimed for his perfection of the self-starter in automobiles. But the 140 patents he held, on his own inventions and improvements on the inventions of others, helped revolutionize a dozen industries.

He was classified a boy wonder in his heyday—a second Thomas Edison.

When electric cash registers ring up sales throughout the world today, they'll be ringing in tribute to Kettering. He invented them.

And if you don't notice a knock in your car motor, you can thank him for that too. He had a hand in developing anti-knock gasoline.

The baby incubators that give many a tiny infant a push down the road of life; the refrigeration unit that keeps your food from spoiling; the pilotless airplane, aerial torpedo, deisel locomotives, accounting machines — Kettering helped develop all of these.

He lapsed into a coma from which he never emerged after suffering the second stroke in two days.

Kettering's only son, Eugene, of Hinsdale, Ill., was with him when he died. The inventor's wife died in 1946.

His funeral will be held 2 p.m. Friday at Christ Episcopal Church in Dayton with burial in Woodland Cemetery here. Dr. Phil Porter of Gambier, Ohio, former rec-

Democratic Victory Seen For Alaska

Party Leads In All Major Races; GOP Has Senate Chance

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A smashing Democratic victory in Alaska's election emerged today as returns mounted from the vast territory's 287 precincts.

Democrats led in all major races and were assured of overwhelming control of the 60-member Legislature.

Less than half the estimated total vote of about 40,000 in Tuesday's general election had been reported, but big city precincts still out were considered sure to reinforce the steadily growing Democratic lead.

Republicans still had a chance in the major contest between Democrat Ernest Gruening and Republican Mike Stepovich for one of the new state's two U.S. Senate seats.

Gruening, appointed governor of Alaska for more than 13 years during Democratic administrations, pulled ahead after the lead changed several times during the night.

Stepovich, who resigned as governor to make the Senate race, was the Republicans' strongest candidate for any major office.

E. L. Bartlett, Alaska's Democratic delegate to Congress for the past 14 years, captured one U.S. Senate seat in a landslide.

Ralph Rivers, Democratic nominee for the single U.S. House seat from Alaska, claimed victory on the basis of the mounting returns.

Death Of Man Investigated

Foul Play Doubted In Salineville Case

Carroll County authorities are awaiting test samples of blood and a laboratory report before ruling in the death of a 46-year-old Salineville construction worker whose body was found in his automobile Tuesday morning in Fox Township, Carroll County.

Charles T. Manning, 608 Water St., was discovered dead in his car at 9:40 a. m. Tuesday on the farm of Elwood Davis. He was last seen alive Monday at 4:30 p. m., authorities said.

Carroll County Sheriff Dean Yeager and Coroner Clarence Deckman said a complete investigation into the circumstances surrounding the unemployed man's death produced no evidence of foul play.

However, blood samples were sent to a laboratory for further investigation and a ruling will not be made until the results are known, authorities said.

Mr. Manning was born Sept. 14, 1912, in Salineville, the son of Oliver and Maude Manning.

He was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church of Salineville, Eagles Lodge of Wellsville and the Moose Lodge of East Liverpool.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Manning at home; two sons, Earl Manning, stationed at Ft. Wood, Mo., with the Army, and Charles Manning Jr. at home, and three brothers, Harold Manning and Paul Manning, both of Salineville, and Jack Mannig of Lisbon.

Services will be held Friday at 9 a. m. at the church by Fr. Homer G. Oliver. Burial will be in St. Patrick's Cemetery.

Rosary will be recited Thursday at 8 p. m. Friends may call tonight and Thursday afternoon and evening at the Kerr Funeral Home in Salineville.

Nightclub Swept By $50,000 Fire In Palestine Area

EAST PALESTINE — Flames swept through the Los Vegas tavern - nightclub along Route 14 near here early this morning, causing an estimated $50,000 damage. Firemen from five communities battled the blaze.

A passing motorist saw the fire and telephoned East Palestine firemen about 3:55 a. m. All city equipment was rushed to the one-story frame structure, located about four miles west of here.

Handicapped by a shortage of water, Palestine firemen called the Negley, New Waterford, New Springfield and Columbiana departments.

The building, midway between here and Columbiana, is owned by Red Neopolitan of Boardman, who, together with Fire Chief Glen Libert, estimated the loss to building and contents at $50,000. Neopolitan said a quantity of liquor and expensive taproom equipment were destroyed. No one was injured.

Chief Libert said the blaze apparently began near the kitchen and furnace area and the whole rear of the long, low building was burned out. The front and side walls remained standing.

Chief Libert said the loss was partially covered by insurance. He was continuing the investigation into the cause today.

Loss Placed At $3,500 In Fire At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Damage was estimated at $3,500 today in the burning of a small frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Pete) Turner of West End Monday night.

Fire Chief Tony Brandonisio said the structure apparently ignited from an overheated furnace and the family was able to save only a television set.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner were able to get their three daughters—6, 2 and 9 months—out of the two-room building safety. Firemen battled the flames and smoke for an hour and 45 minutes.

The fire victims are residing with his father, Paul Turner, next door. Mrs. Turner said they especially need bedclothing and a baby bed along with children's clothing. Turner works at the Sterling Mine.

Grand Jury Acts In Trial Disclosure

Ex-City Policeman Unable To Appear For Recalled Panel

Ira Cunningham, 52-year-old former police officer convicted of a burglary last week, faced a new criminal indictment today as a result of an investigation of the recalled September Grand Jury Tuesday.

Cunningham was indicted on a charge of attempting to bribe a prospective juror, based on a conversation held with a drugstore clerk over two weeks ago before trial began on the burglary charge.

The ex - officer was slated to appear before the panel yesterday, but was unable to testify because he remained under sedation at his Riley Ave. home, convalescing from a sudden sickness which struck him on the streets of Steubenville Monday.

The indictment is apparently based on a conversation of Nov. 9 at McBurney's Pharmacy between Cunningham and Donald Lockhart of McKinnon Ave., employe of the store and a prospective juror in the trial.

On the basis of a tape recorded account of the talk, Cunningham offered to make up the difference between Lockhart's salary and his jury allowance.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw said the indictment replaces a similar charge pending in Municipal Court, since the evidence was placed directly before the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury handed down the single indictment yesterday about 3:20 p. m., after studying various incidents of contacts with jurors and prospective jurors in the police burglary trials in the past month.

Among the incidents reviewed by the panel were a telephone call from Miss Anna Vitalune of Lisbon to Mrs. Mable Stuckey of Lisbon, a juror in the trial of Cunningham, Robert Carroll and Jerry Raimond which ended Friday.

Raimond and Cunningham were found guilty of the 1952 burglary of Burbick's Hardware store, while Carroll was acquitted.

Airlift Eyed By Allies In Berlin Dispute

Will Challenge Red German Effort To Bar Ground Travel

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Western Allies are likely to challenge any East German effort to control their traffic to Berlin by taking to the air, not by trying to force through a ground convoy.

That is the opinion of informed Western sources here. They say any idea of attempting to push an armed convoy through East Germany has been abandoned.

It would be easy for the Communists to thwart a convoy attempt without resorting to arms, the Allies reason. The East Germans would only have to throw some switches, tear up some rails or blow up a few bridges to stop Allied trains or trucks.

Operation At TST Hit By Finishers' Walkout

Operations in part of the clay shop at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. at Chester were affected today by a walkout of 5 or 6 women finishers Tuesday in what was termed a dispute over piece-work prices for a new dinnerware line.

In an attempt to iron out the dispute, management spokesmen met with union representatives shortly before noon today at IBOP headquarters.

Most of the plant operations were continuing today without interruption, the company said. It was scheduled to suspend operations this afternoon for the holiday, resuming Monday. A company spokesman termed the stoppage "an illegal walkout" and said that although only a few finishers are involved at present "it will affect the entire plant unless it is settled quickly."

Suits Filed In Strike Of Major Airline

Eastern, Engineers Take Their Dispute Into Federal Court

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Eastern Air Lines and its striking flight engineers today took their dispute into federal court. The three-day-old strike is tying up the nation's largest airline in a peak travel season.

As the Thanksgiving weekend neared, Eastern and another major carrier, Trans World Airlines, appeared far from a settlement. But the outlook was better elsewhere.

National Airlines and its machinists agreed to a new contract, heading off a walkout. And the Air Line Pilots Assn. bowed to a court order temporarily forbidding a strike against American Airlines.

On Florida's southeast coast, air reservations requests piled up.

Passengers could get night coach tickets for points north with a two-day wait. The waiting list for first-class flights ran five days.

Coming in by air, the situation was about the same. The earliest National Air Lines would accept reservations from New York to Miami was Monday, Dec. 1.

Railroad reservations were immediate—both ways.

A factor of importance to this tourist-conscious area is that Eastern provides the sole direct air link between Miami and 30 cities, including Detroit, Akron, Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio, Pittsburgh and Montreal.

American Airlines appeared to have averted a strike by the Air Line Pilots Assn. The pilots said they would honor a court order directed against a walkout scheduled for last midnight.

Full agreement was reached between National Air Lines and the International Assn. of Machinists, according to an announcement. The new contract runs until Oct. 1, 1960.

Northeast Air Line representatives met with the IAM at Boston Tuesday night. Afterward, a com-

Police Tighten Patrols In City

Added Enforcement Slated For Holidays

The beginning of the holiday season means that the police department will intensify its patrols, particularly foot beats in the downtown area, to guard against the usual increase in burglaries, thefts, robberies and other crimes that mark the rush period between Thanksgiving and New Year's.

The announcement of tightened enforcement came today from Safety-Service Director Dan Maggianetti, who also warned businessmen to be on guard against counterfeiters and bad check-passers.

The forgers and counterfeit-passers regard the holiday rush as a perfect time for their activities because clerks are busy and distracted, he pointed out. He warned businessmen not to cash personal checks without absolute identification.

"Cruiser patrols will be especially alert for suspicious cars at night," Maggianetti said. "Businessmen who see anyone acting suspiciously in their stores, particularly near closing time, should notify the police department," he added.

Eastern, Engineers Take Their Dispute Into Federal Court

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Eastern Air Lines and its striking flight engineers today took their dispute into federal court. The three-day-old strike is tying up the nation's largest airline in a peak travel season.

As the Thanksgiving weekend neared, Eastern and another major carrier, Trans World Airlines, appeared far from a settlement. But the outlook was better elsewhere.

National Airlines and its machinists agreed to a new contract, heading off a walkout. And the Air Line Pilots Assn. bowed to a court order temporarily forbidding a strike against American Airlines.

On Florida's southeast coast, air reservations requests piled up.

Passengers could get night coach tickets for points north with a two-day wait. The waiting list for first-class flights ran five days.

Coming in by air, the situation was about the same. The earliest National Air Lines would accept reservations from New York to Miami was Monday, Dec. 1.

Railroad reservations were immediate—both ways.

A factor of importance to this tourist-conscious area is that Eastern provides the sole direct air link between Miami and 30 cities, including Detroit, Akron, Columbus and Cleveland, Ohio, Pittsburgh and Montreal.

American Airlines appeared to have averted a strike by the Air Line Pilots Assn. The pilots said they would honor a court order directed against a walkout scheduled for last midnight.

Full agreement was reached between National Air Lines and the International Assn. of Machinists, according to an announcement. The new contract runs until Oct. 1, 1960.

Northeast Air Line representatives met with the IAM at Boston Tuesday night. Afterward, a com-

Ex-City Policeman Unable To Appear For Recalled Panel

Ira Cunningham, 52-year-old former police officer convicted of a burglary last week, faced a new criminal indictment today as a result of an investigation of the recalled September Grand Jury Tuesday.

Cunningham was indicted on a charge of attempting to bribe a prospective juror, based on a conversation held with a drugstore clerk over two weeks ago before trial began on the burglary charge.

The ex - officer was slated to appear before the panel yesterday, but was unable to testify because he remained under sedation at his Riley Ave. home, convalescing from a sudden sickness which struck him on the streets of Steubenville Monday.

The indictment is apparently based on a conversation of Nov. 9 at McBurney's Pharmacy between Cunningham and Donald Lockhart of McKinnon Ave., employe of the store and a prospective juror in the trial.

On the basis of a tape recorded account of the talk, Cunningham offered to make up the difference between Lockhart's salary and his jury allowance.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw said the indictment replaces a similar charge pending in Municipal Court, since the evidence was placed directly before the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury handed down the single indictment yesterday about 3:20 p. m., after studying various incidents of contacts with jurors and prospective jurors in the police burglary trials in the past month.

Among the incidents reviewed by the panel were a telephone call from Miss Anna Vitalune of Lisbon to Mrs. Mable Stuckey of Lisbon, a juror in the trial of Cunningham, Robert Carroll and Jerry Raimond which ended Friday.

Raimond and Cunningham were found guilty of the 1952 burglary of Burbick's Hardware store, while Carroll was acquitted.

Police Tighten Patrols In City

Added Enforcement Slated For Holidays

The beginning of the holiday season means that the police department will intensify its patrols, particularly foot beats in the downtown area, to guard against the usual increase in burglaries, thefts, robberies and other crimes that mark the rush period between Thanksgiving and New Year's.

The announcement of tightened enforcement came today from Safety-Service Director Dan Maggianetti, who also warned businessmen to be on guard against counterfeiters and bad check-passers.

The forgers and counterfeit-passers regard the holiday rush as a perfect time for their activities because clerks are busy and distracted, he pointed out. He warned businessmen not to cash personal checks without absolute identification.

tor of the church, will officiate at the services.

Born on a farm near Loudonville, in north central Ohio, on Aug. 29, 1876, Kettering became an avid reader of books in his formative years. His poor eyesight, forced him to drop out of Ohio State University several times.

It was during one of these school layoffs that he acquired the nickname "Boss Ket." He went to work as a post-hole digger for a telephone company and soon became foreman.

In 1904, when he was 28, he earned his engineering degree. That's when his amazing inventive career began.

It didn't end when, in 1947, he announced his retirement as head of the Research Division of General Motors Corp. He remained active, including his work in the Kettering Foundation, which he founded in 1925 at Antioch College.

Kettering often said of his work with the foundation that he wanted to find out why grass was green. But the study contributed much to the knowledge of how photosynthesis works.

It was his quest for knowledge that pushed Kettering to greater and greater heights. "To me," he once said, "science is merely finding out how nature does things . . . It's just as simple as that."

A humanitarian as well as a multi - millionaire, he used his money to further the advancement of science. In 1945, he joined Alfred P. Sloan Jr., retired board chairman of General Motors, in establishing the Sloan Kettering Institute for cancer research.

Alaska

ing his margin in the race for the first elected governor of Alaska.

The closest major race was between Gruening and Stepovich, another former governor, who had been favored on the basis of a 5,700-vote margin he had posted over Gruening in a primary election three months ago.

With 134 precincts reporting, Bartlett had 13,158 votes in his Senate race against 2,394 for Republican R. E. Robertson and 183 for independent Keith Capper. Gruening had 8,323 against 7,734 for Stepovich. For Alaska's single congressional seat, Democrat Ralph Rivers had 8,878 votes to 7,241 for Repubilcan Henry Benson.

For governor, Democrat William Egan, 44, a Valdez merchant, had 9,753 votes to 5,994 for Republican John Butrovich Jr., 48, a veteran territorial legislator.

Pre-election forecasts favored Democrats in all but the Stepovich-Gruening race, and Republican campaign efforts were concentrated on hopes of salvaging that one Senate seat.

A sweep in the senatorial contests would give Democrats 64 seats to 34 for Republicans when the 86th Congress convenes in January.

Victory for the Democrats in the congressional race would give the party 283 seats in the House of Representatives to 153 for the GOP.

Awards Made At Midland Dinner

Police Receive Pistol Certificates

Tom Jones, center, of Butler, instructor for the Public School of Instruction public service institute, presented certificates for various ratings with pistol at the Midland police department's dinner event Tuesday night at Deramo's Restaurant.

The officers qualified in the use of the police .38 during classes held in August and September at the indoor range in Midland and at the Sportsmen's Farm.

Patrolman Bratich and Sgt. Anusich tied for top score as experts, and Sgt. D'Itri and Officer Borato also qualified as experts.

All four had scores above 620 out of a possible 700.

They were Chief Ed J. Stefl, Capt. H. P. Norris, Sgt. Joe McLean, patrolmen Miles Mazine, Chester D. Cook, Samuel Ratkovich, William Rich, George Tepovich, Anthony Verzelli and David Jakes, and Bernard Zlatovich, Ohio Township constable.

Jones, an ex-sergeant of the Pennsylvania State Police, said the men who qualified were trained to shoot both left and right handed at slow and rapid fire at targets at various distances.

He termed the Midland police "champs of my district." Part of their high scores, he explained, was due to their participation in the Beaver Valley Police Revolver League.

Burgess Eli Corak was toastmaster and presented Jones with a gift from the Midland force. The burgess congratulated the men and told them that by such training, "they would have more confidence in their jobs and residents could feel secure, knowing they have skilled, well-trained policemen."

Guest speakers included Police Chief Walter B. Kunkle and Larry Robinson, Civil Defense officer, both of Mt. Lebanon. Other guests were Capt. William H. McBurney of the Crucible Steel Co. police force, Steve Germusa, Raymond Presutti, Joe D'Alesio and Harvey Spencer, borough councilmen, Rudy Presutti, tax collector, and Fred Wilton, assistant cashier of the Midland Beaver Trust Co.

Dairy's Driver Cited On Lack Of City Permit

A delivery truck driver for McAllister Dairy Farms, Inc., at Warren, which has been denied a 1958 city milk permit by the Board of Health, was arrested early Tuesday afternoon in East End on a charge of bringing milk into the city illegally for sale.

Dennis George Langham of Warren posted a $56 bond in Municipal Court to regain his freedom after he was cited at 12:20 at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St. by Patrolman Lloyd K. Garvey and John Owen, a Health Board sanitary inspector.

No date has been set for his hearing. Langham is represented by Atty. Donald D. Shay.

The arrest apparently was a follow-up on a Health Board announcement Nov. 5 that McAllister had been denied a permit to sell milk in East Liverpool. The board's statement, issued by Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, health commissioner, said the denial resulted from "inspection of numerous samples of milk delivered into this city and the inspection of the milk processing plant at Warren."

The charge against Langham alleges that he "did bring into the said city for sale certain milk called 'McAllister's', said Langham nor McAllister's Dairy Farms, Inc., not possessing a permit from the Board of Health of said city for said purpose, contrary to Ordinance No. 4304, 1954."

The company's president, Temple McAllister, was named defendant in a Municipal Court action here about five years ago shortly affer his concern opened its first East Liverpool outlet. The case was heard before a jury, but was dismissed by Judge George L. Brokaw on a technicality.

er the trial was under way, later told Judge Raymond Buzzard she was "sorry" about the call and did not realize it was improper.

Miss Vitalune testified before the Grand Jury yesterday, along with Paul Coppock of near New Waterford and John Miller of Salineville.

Carroll recently phoned Coppock to obtain information about a prospective juror, while Miller was a member of the "hung jury" which was unable to reach a verdict Oct. 31 in the trial of Cunningham and Carroll for the 1952 burglary of the Smith & Phillips Co. store.

Richey Wallace of Toronto, a jeweler and pawnbroker was to testify yesterday, but has not yet been found by officers seeking him since Nov. 9.

Wallace was to have been a prosecution witness in the past trial and promised to testify, but left his home Nov. 8 and has not been located. He purchased from Raimond in 1952 some photographic equipment stolen from Burbick's.

Cunningham and Carroll are slated to go on trial Monday for the 1952 entering of the Smith & Phillips Co. — a re-trial of the case which ended in a "hung jury."

The Grand Jury's report stated: "We have carefully examined into the various matters brought to our attention in connection with the calling of jurors and attempting to influence them in their decisions, and we found insufficient evidence for indictments in all but one case.

"We do find that one direct contact was made with a juror, and that at least one other contact was attempted in connection with the recent trial of a criminal case and that such contacts are highly improper and irregular and contrary to the principles upon which our jury system is founded."

pany spokesman termed the talks satisfactory.

Meanwhile, Pan American World Airways announced in New York that it had reached a contract settlement with the Air Transport Division of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The 5,000 clerical workers had set a strike deadline for the day after Thanksgiving.

Eastern filed suit for more than five million dollars against the Flight Engineers. The airline also asked federal court to enjoin the court to rule that it can force its engineers to meet qualifications deemed advisable for jet aircraft.

In turn, the Flight Engineers are suing Eastern. They want federal court to enjoin Eastern and the Air Line Pilots Assn. from negotiating any contract affecting engineers' job qualifications.

ing his margin in the race for the first elected governor of Alaska.

The closest major race was between Gruening and Stepovich, another former governor, who had been favored on the basis of a 5,700-vote margin he had posted over Gruening in a primary election three months ago.

With 134 precincts reporting, Bartlett had 13,158 votes in his Senate race against 2,394 for Republican R. E. Robertson and 183 for independent Keith Capper. Gruening had 8,323 against 7,734 for Stepovich. For Alaska's single congressional seat, Democrat Ralph Rivers had 8,878 votes to 7,241 for Repubilcan Henry Benson.

For governor, Democrat William Egan, 44, a Valdez merchant, had 9,753 votes to 5,994 for Republican John Butrovich Jr., 48, a veteran territorial legislator.

Pre-election forecasts favored Democrats in all but the Stepovich-Gruening race, and Republican campaign efforts were concentrated on hopes of salvaging that one Senate seat.

A sweep in the senatorial contests would give Democrats 64 seats to 34 for Republicans when the 86th Congress convenes in January.

Victory for the Democrats in the congressional race would give the party 283 seats in the House of Representatives to 153 for the GOP.

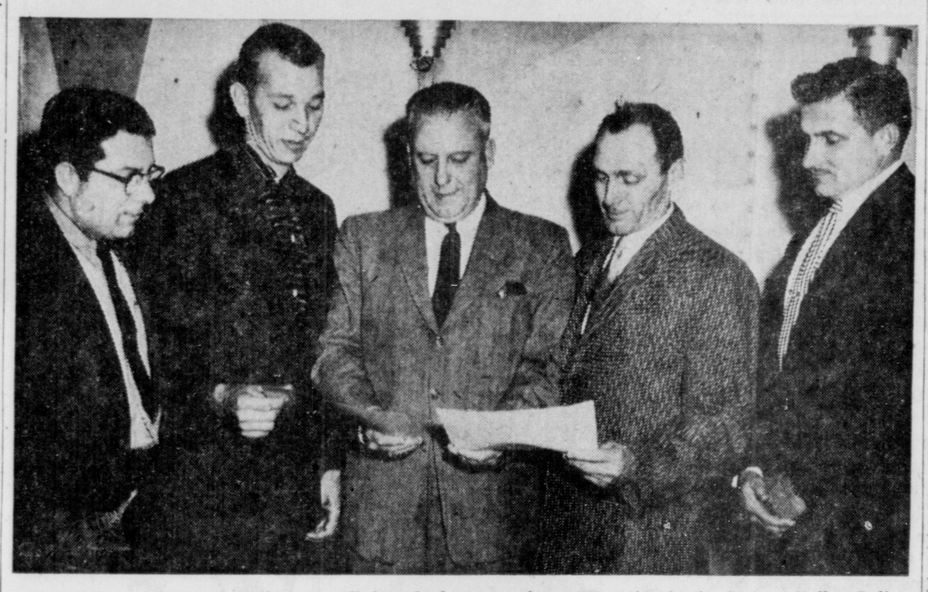
Police Receive Pistol Certificates



Tom Jones, center, of Butler, instructor for the Public School of Instruction public service institute, presented certificates for various ratings with pistol at the Midland police department's dinner event Tuesday night at Deramo's Restaurant.

The officers qualified in the use of the police .38 during classes held in August and September at the indoor range in Midland and at the Sportsmen's Farm.

Patrolman Bratich and Sgt. Anusich tied for top score as experts, and Sgt. D'Itri and Officer Borato also qualified as experts.

All four had scores above 620 out of a possible 700.

They were Chief Ed J. Stefl, Capt. H. P. Norris, Sgt. Joe McLean, patrolmen Miles Mazine, Chester D. Cook, Samuel Ratkovich, William Rich, George Tepovich, Anthony Verzelli and David Jakes, and Bernard Zlatovich, Ohio Township constable.

Jones, an ex-sergeant of the Pennsylvania State Police, said the men who qualified were trained to shoot both left and right handed at slow and rapid fire at targets at various distances.

He termed the Midland police "champs of my district." Part of their high scores, he explained, was due to their participation in the Beaver Valley Police Revolver League.

Burgess Eli Corak was toastmaster and presented Jones with a gift from the Midland force. The burgess congratulated the men and told them that by such training, "they would have more confidence in their jobs and residents could feel secure, knowing they have skilled, well-trained policemen."

Guest speakers included Police Chief Walter B. Kunkle and Larry Robinson, Civil Defense officer, both of Mt. Lebanon. Other guests were Capt. William H. McBurney of the Crucible Steel Co. police force, Steve Germusa, Raymond Presutti, Joe D'Alesio and Harvey Spencer, borough councilmen, Rudy Presutti, tax collector, and Fred Wilton, assistant cashier of the Midland Beaver Trust Co.

Dairy's Driver Cited On Lack Of City Permit

A delivery truck driver for McAllister Dairy Farms, Inc., at Warren, which has been denied a 1958 city milk permit by the Board of Health, was arrested early Tuesday afternoon in East End on a charge of bringing milk into the city illegally for sale.

Dennis George Langham of Warren posted a $56 bond in Municipal Court to regain his freedom after he was cited at 12:20 at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St. by Patrolman Lloyd K. Garvey and John Owen, a Health Board sanitary inspector.

No date has been set for his hearing. Langham is represented by Atty. Donald D. Shay.

The arrest apparently was a follow-up on a Health Board announcement Nov. 5 that McAllister had been denied a permit to sell milk in East Liverpool. The board's statement, issued by Dr. E. G. Kuhlman, health commissioner, said the denial resulted from "inspection of numerous samples of milk delivered into this city and the inspection of the milk processing plant at Warren."

The charge against Langham alleges that he "did bring into the said city for sale certain milk called 'McAllister's', said Langham nor McAllister's Dairy Farms, Inc., not possessing a permit from the Board of Health of said city for said purpose, contrary to Ordinance No. 4304, 1954."

The company's president, Temple McAllister, was named defendant in a Municipal Court action here about five years ago shortly after his concern opened its first East Liverpool outlet. The case was heard before a jury, but was dismissed by Judge George L. Brokaw on a technicality.

A reading of the first presidential Thanksgiving proclamation of George Washington highlighted a meeting of the Chester Kiwanis Club Tuesday night at the City Hall auditorium.

The Rev. Lewis Legg of the Chester Church of the Nazarene spoke.

Dr. R. D. Watkins of the club's flood control project committee said applications for federal authorization of the program for Middle Run will be mailed today. The club, as co-sponsor with the city, has agreed to maintain the dams which would be built by the federal government, if approved.

er the trial was under way, later told Judge Raymond Buzzard she was "sorry" about the call and did not realize it was improper.

Miss Vitalune testified before the Grand Jury yesterday, along with Paul Coppock of near New Waterford and John Miller of Salineville.

Carroll recently phoned Coppock to obtain information about a prospective juror, while Miller was a member of the "hung jury" which was unable to reach a verdict Oct. 31 in the trial of Cunningham and Carroll for the 1952 burglary of the Smith & Phillips Co. store.

Richey Wallace of Toronto, a jeweler and pawnbroker was to testify yesterday, but has not yet been found by officers seeking him since Nov. 9.

Wallace was to have been a prosecution witness in the past trial and promised to testify, but left his home Nov. 8 and has not been located. He purchased from Raimond in 1952 some photographic equipment stolen from Burbick's.

Cunningham and Carroll are slated to go on trial Monday for the 1952 entering of the Smith & Phillips Co. — a re-trial of the case which ended in a "hung jury."

The Grand Jury's report stated: "We have carefully examined into the various matters brought to our attention in connection with the calling of jurors and attempting to influence them in their decisions, and we found insufficient evidence for indictments in all but one case.

"We do find that one direct contact was made with a juror, and that at least one other contact was attempted in connection with the recent trial of a criminal case and that such contacts are highly improper and irregular and contrary to the principles upon which our jury system is founded."

Two Doctors Named As Deputy Coroners

Dr. J. Keith Rugh of East Liverpool and Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem have been named deputy coroners for Columbiana County by the county commissioners, pending appointment of a coroner.

Applications from county physicians are being received by the commissioners, who will name a replacement for Ernest Sturgis, who died last week.

pany spokesman termed the talks satisfactory.

Meanwhile, Pan American World Airways announced in New York that it had reached a contract settlement with the Air Transport Division of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The 5,000 clerical workers had set a strike deadline for the day after Thanksgiving.

Eastern filed suit for more than five million dollars against the Flight Engineers. The airline also asked federal court to enjoin the court to rule that it can force its engineers to meet qualifications deemed advisable for jet aircraft.

In turn, the Flight Engineers are suing Eastern. They want federal court to enjoin Eastern and the Air Line Pilots Assn. from negotiating any contract affecting engineers' job qualifications.

Ohio Should Tune Its Engine First

It is no secret among the Democrats who are getting ready to take Columbus by storm that the state is going to need more money to carry out an ever-expanding program of education, welfare and subsidies.

Though it is not being talked about yet, there is even the possibility the state may have to get more income to build and maintain the highway system Ohioans are thinking about these days.

The immediate pressure point in state finances will be income for the state's general fund. And the first thing that will bob up in partisan debate, it is safe to predict, will be the familiar claim that the sales tax, which provides more than half of the general fund income, is a bad tax because it is collected from everybody. Democrats favor this line of reasoning.

It will take a political miracle to keep the sales tax intact, for this reason. And it will take a miracle on top of a miracle to keep it not only intact but to improve on it, despite the fact some improvements could be made that would increase its efficiency at no additional cost to Ohioans.

The Ohio Legislative Service Commission has shown in detail that the sales tax can be made more productive without raising rates. The same study has shown that the framework of the sales tax can be made more useful with a minimum of cost to Ohioans if it becomes necessary to raise more money than the framework of a new tax.

The groundwork has been prepared for quick action, if that is what Ohio needs. Everything that needs to be known about the sales tax in Ohio has been reduced to written knowledge by the Ohio Legislative Service Commission.

Whatever may be done about other existing and potential sources of income for the general fund should be done independently of action on the sales tax, which should be put into A-1 shape before anything else is tackled.

If and when the General Assembly does this engine-tuning, moreover, it should clear up the old wheeze about the state returning sales tax money to cities. It has been obvious for a long time that city officials either do not understand or do not want to understand what they actually are receiving, not only from the so-called "local government fund" but in other forms of revenue distribution, such as poor relief.

The Ohio sales tax has worked well and can be made to work even better.

Making Sense Out Of Militarism

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces in Europe and President Eisenhower's protege; Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, former commander of U.S. forces in Europe — these are the military members.

John J. McCloy, former high commissioner for Germany and now president of Chase Manhattan National Bank; James E. Webb, a former director of the U.S. Budget Bureau; William H. Draper Jr., a former undersecretary of the army, ambassador to NATO and the man who will act as chairman of the commission—these are typical of the civilian members. Even the counsel for the group, Tracy Voorhees, is a former undersecretary of the army.

George C. McGhee, one of the other three members, is a former assistant secretary of state. Dillon Anderson is a former presidential aide on national security. Marx Leva is a former assistant secretary of defense.

Men like these could well be going after bigger game than evaluation of the U.S. military aid program. They could be gunning for a new concept of military security to replace the current concept.

Until the United States has learned to think of security in terms other than physical encirclement of the Soviet Union, to offset the Kremlin's threat that it will try to destroy this country, military spending will be a dead weight on the U.S. economy. The attempt to carry this deadweight has kept taxes high and boomed inflation.

A blue-ribbon investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. military aid could become an investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. militarism. The nine outstanding citizens named by the White House to study the former may very well become the means of making more sense out of the latter.

It Goes Deeper Than The Constitution

The chatter and clamor about segregation sound pretty inconsequential when churchmen speak on the subject.

The churchmen have a special problem. If they believe what they advocate and if they advocate the brotherhood of man, they cannot go along with segregationists who advocate first-class and second-class citizenship for Southern citizens.

But unless they are blessed with parishioners who believed in the same things, they cannot advocate integration without risking their pulpits and, in some communities, the privilege of being useful. They become the prisoners of the flocks they are supposed to be leading.

Yet, in spite of their special problem, churchmen have been a strong voice for desegregation. Knowing full well that desegregation will not be feasible in religious worship for a long time to come, because it is a voluntary function and immune to any kind of public control, many churchmen have spoken out courageously for desegregation of public education.

Segregationists and bitter-end politicos milking the segregation issue have no rebuttal to the simple proposition that brotherly love and segregation are incompatible. They can split hairs about the Constitution. They can challenge the power of the federal government over the states. But even at their irreconcilable worst, they cannot challenge the admonition to love their neighbors as they love themselves. They can challenge the inclusion of the spirit of the admonition in the Constitution, but they cannot declare it out of order in the teachings of the church.

As the churchmen begin to speak out more courageously, one wonders what Supreme Court, what election, what showdown the Orval Faubuses and the J. Lindsay Almods will fall back on to put their spiritual advisers in their places.

The French Leave No Doubt About It

These are hard times for the Frenchmen who made a mockery of the Fourth Republic by running it to death in the left field of French politics. They may never get back in power.

Gaullism, which is the philosophy of discipline preached by Premier De Gaulle, has scored another triumph in elections for the new National Assembly. The leftists have been repudiated. The rightists have proved again that the pendulum of French politics is swinging in their favor.

The question raised by the rightist success is the same one that was raised when the leftists were favored by the political pendulum: Will they have the wisdom to withstand success?

Specifically, will they understand why it is necessary in politics to put moderation ahead of extremism?

The Gaullists now have no opposition strong enough to prevail against them. Even though their movement is built around the austere public character of their leader, will he be able to control the extremism of his character of their leader, will he be able to control the extremism of his followers when they begin to feel their political oats?

If not, then the rightist swing that has carried France farther away from the left than it has been in a generation is going to create the circumstances for an equally violent swing to the left.

The swing must happen sooner or later in any event. Gaullist extremism could make it happen sooner and more violently than it would need to happen. The French have tried to save themselves by giving extraordinary power to Charles de Gaulle. Their new constitution says the president of the republic "shall ensure, by his arbitration, the regular functioning of the governmental authorities, as well as the continuance of the State."

That is an invitation of extremism.

Thou Shalt Not Be Too Successful

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld's ruling against the proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube contains one passage of judicial reasoning that will be read twice and thrice by corporation lawyers with an eye for this type of work.

Referring to the companies' argument that they needed the merger to meet a demand for heavy structural shapes and plates in the Chicago area and that without it they would not know how to proceed, Judge Weinfeld said:

"The defendants' apprehensions, which, of course, involve matters of business judgment and, in a sense, matters of preference, are not persuasive in the light of their prior activities and history, their financial resources, their growth and demonstrated capacity through the years to meet the challenge of a constantly growing economy."

Or to be blunt about it, Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube always had been so successful in the past that the judge could see no reason to help them be successful in the future. He was sure they could do whatever needed to be done without asking his court to stretch Sect. 7 of the Clayton Act in their favor.

The section says:

Labor, Industry Tension Grows

By Victor Riesel

Within a few days in the headquarters of at least one of President Eisenhower's advisers, several men will talk about a peace parley to head off one whale of an industrial war looming grimly in 1959.

Victor Riesel

This war will be a "class" war, it seems to some of us who won purple hearts covering the tear gas and brick-and-bat conflicts of ancient strikes. Insiders see trouble coming as both sides line up and labor people shout "fascist" at businessmen and industrialists return the taunts with charges that union leaders are "socialists."

For some time all this has troubled one of the men who will be dropping in on Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss.

The visitor will be counselor Arthur J. Goldberg, as practical a man as any who has had his peace of mind troubled with a touch of evangelism.

Mr. Goldberg, special counsel to the AFL-CIO, believes that the only way to offset the coming struggle for power is a labor-management summit meeting.

Attorney Goldberg talked of this recently in a university speech. Then he said:

"IN THE RECENT past, I see a hardening of attitudes and retrogression, rather than progress and understanding.

"Management is tougher, unions are tougher, and the end product is not necessarily good for either side."

Goldberg, who also advises the United Steel Workers of America, added: "Each (side) feels it must take a firm stand in behalf of its principles."

No man so high in labor's councils has ever spoken so bluntly—and many believe, so objectively. His warning should not go unheeded throughout the land.

"If this hardening of attitudes which I see is not due to economics, then what is its cause?" he asks.

"Frankly, I'm not sure that I know but I know that it exists. Perhaps it is a by-product of our political scene. For however successful collective bargaining may appear on the surface in organized industries politically, legislatively, philosophically, labor and management today stand apart and the degree of polarization of viewpoints in these areas is far greater than in collective bargaining."

OUT OF HIS experience in dealing with truly vast powerful national forces on both sides, Goldberg comes up with the observation that there is a new generation of executives on both sides. They are strangers to each other.

The men who sat long hours around — instead of across — conference tables during the war, mutually planning to save our land and crush Nazi and Japanese armies, are mostly gone.

The new executives, the new labor chiefs have been growing apart for over a decade now. They know each other only as men in recent wage battles.

What Goldberg suggests is that they be brought together regularly by the government and isolated so they can talk to no one but each other for two or three weeks at a stretch.

And if this doesn't happen?

"If we take no step, if we make no effort, the alternative is discouraging — the widening of the chasm, a hardening of attitudes, all leading to an eventual militant class consciousness — the absence of which has been one of the strengths of democratic America."

GOLDBERG'S PLAN, distributed to over 100 prominent labor and business leaders and educators, calls for the secretary of labor and the secretary of commerce to co-chair such sessions.

To the long summit parleys, Goldberg would have the two Cabinet members invite labor's high command and the presidents and boards of directors of major corportions.

All this, the labor lawyer will raise shortly when he drops in to meet the new secretary of commerce.

Secretary Strauss tells me that he is interested in Goldberg's proposals but that he and Labor Secretary Mitchell would have to consider them jointly.

Mr. Strauss, officially the caretaker of the land's commercial interests, is eager to work for labor-management peace but does not want to insinuate himself even slightly into Jim Mitchell's bailiwick.

However it's done, the vital thing is that the prophetic voice of Art Goldberg be heeded.

Morse's Low Blow

By Raymond Moley

On the Saturday before election in Oregon, there burst in the Oregon press a charge against the Republican candidate for governor, Mark Hatfield. The charge was made by Sen. Wayne Morse. It threw his own party followers, including Democratic Candidate Robert Holmes, seeking re-election, into utter consternation.

It also loosed from the people of the state a vehement condemnation of Morse's attack. The result was a big vote for Hatfield which carried him into office.

Morse brought up an incident in the early life of Hatfield which had been well known to the Democratic high command but which it had firmly refused to use.

Eighteen years ago, when Hatfield was 17, he had while driving his car struck and killed a little girl of 7.

It was not a hit-and-run case, for Hatfield had done all that he could after the accident. His defense was that he had not seen the victim before he struck her. But the courts decided against him.

AMERICANS have an admirable habit of rejecting a man's past, for which atonement has been made, as a political issue. This sense of fairness Morse flagrantly offended.

Morese is a lawyer who was once dean of the Oregon University Law School. His defense for his action has been that he was not making the charge because Hatfield had killed the girl but because his defense has been overruled by the Supreme Court.

The chief justice of that court at that time, now retired, immediately overruled Morse by pointing out that to charge perjury in this case would make a perjurer of every litigant who ever lost a case.

But while Morse poses as a legal master, he is essentially a professional orator. As such, he faces the awful peril—the occupational disease—that threatens those who live by that art.

He has shown symptoms of this malignant weakness before—in his implacable hatred of Sen. Taft; in his intemperate attacks upon President Eisenhower, recently culminating in likening the chief executive to Dave Beck; and in other outbreaks of that sort, along with his unbelievably absurd oratorical antics on the floor of the Senate.

I knew Morse well when he was at the Columbia School of Law in 1929. He told me then that he was writing a book on the oratory of the elder La Follette.

Prior to that, he was teaching public speaking in Minnesota.

For him, then and always since, the word—the spoken word—is the beginning and the end of things.

Now we see that the word is first a servant, then a master, then a cruel tyrant, and, finally, such a man's executioner.

THERE IS WHAT has been called the awful "isolation of the pulpit." The orator stands first in the legitimate province of the advocate, but gradually, as the toxic influence of the crowd dulls his sense, he moves to the quicksands of agitation.

Finally, sensation must mount upon sensation, or the spell is broken.

Ever and ever the excited crowd lures the speaker—to affirmation, to exhortation, to vehemence, to vituperation. All must end in failure, for the crowd's appetite is illimitable.

Unhappy with the limitations of human speech, the crowd turns from its magician in resentment or in disgust. The orator ends in exhaustion or tragedy or in bathos.

Morse has come close to the end of this trail. In the new Congress his vote will not be needed by the party to which he turned in passionate pique. Its majority is very large.

He has created an enemy of his junior, Sen. Neuberger. He has injured his party in Oregon, which regards him as an insufferable burden.

He will be lonely there and in Washington, just as were those captured by their own excesses before—the Bleases, the Heflins, and others.

Morse is literate. I would suggest a course in history. There he might find plenty of clinical examples of famous orators who were the victims of their words.

By the way, whatever became of Charles Taft and his committee, or something, on clean politics?

Warren In 1960?

By David Lawrence

Chief Justice Seen 'Modern' GOP Leader

Lots of things can happen in two years — and it may be that Vice President Nixon and Rockefeller will not remain the only personalities prominent in the discussion of prospective Republican nominees for the presidency. For there is always the possibility that the name of Chief Justice Warren will also be tossed into the ring.

David Lawrence

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, told a television audience the other day that, among others, Chief Justice Warren would make a good presidential nominee in 1960.

This is a significant indorsement from the man who is being hailed as having a powerful voice in the American electorate. In view of the signal success of the labor unions recently in electing to Congress a majority of Democrats, the importance of such a tribute cannot be minimized.

Mr. Warren has himself denied any presidential ambitions and has made his disclaimer about as positive as anyone can. But it will be recalled that Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes said virtually the same thing several times before he was nominated by the Republican party in 1916.

MR. HUGHES told this correspondent in no uncertain terms just a few days before the Republican National Convention that he couldn't conceive of his being nominated. He pointed out that he had not encouraged anyone to get delegates for him — indeed, had disavowed them — and had publicly refused to allow his name to go on the ballot in any primary elections. But he was drafted just the same.

Chief Justice Warren won the governorship in California in 1946 as the nominee of both parties. He is known as an outstanding vote-getter.

Noting that Knowland and Nixon were unsuccessful in their efforts in the last California campaign, many Californians say Mr. Warren could have won if he had been a candidate this time.

He made a speech in San Francisco last month on federal-state relationships which was considered by some observers as having political overtones since it was delivered during the campaign.

IT IS TRUE that Mr. Warren would not attract any Southern states because of the views he expressed in the desegregation case in 1954, but the Republican party can write off the possibility of winning any electoral votes in the South no matter who the Republican nominee may be.

The sending of federal troops to Little Rock ended for years to come any chance for the Republican party in the South.

But Chief Justice Warren is the type of political personality who, it would be urged, could get the so-called "liberal" vote and the labor vote and, of course, the Negro vote overwhelmingly in the North.

If the criterion is what kind of showing a nominee could make among minority groups generally, then, political speaking, there are potent reasons for considering Earl Warren.

It is even possible for Mr. Warren to become the Democratic party nominee — if his record on so-called "liberal" issues is matched against that of any other governor or former governor whose name has been offered thus far on the Democratic side.

THERE WAS a time not so long ago — 1948 and 1951 — when in the pre-convention talk Dwight Eisenhower was often mentioned for both tickets, and indeed he was indorsed for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948 by prominent Democratic leaders, including some from the ranks of labor.

Since Mr. Warren has been so popular in the Democratic party in California, his name is one the Democrats might toss about, just as they did that of Gen. Eisenhower only a few years ago.

The one drawback for the Democrats in considering any Warren-for-President movement is that the "Solid South" would truly rebel at the polls if he were named.

But judging by the strategy of some of the Northern leaders in "cloture" and drastic legislation on "civil rights," those same leaders must feel that the electoral votes of the South are not at all necessary and that the victory in 1960 will be a landslide for the Democratic presidential nominee without the South's votes.

EARL WARREN is a man for whose rise the Republican party is largely responsible. For he owns his appointment on the high court to the recommendations received by President Eisenhower from influential members of the Republican party.

Also, the desegregation decision of 1954 is in conformity with the Republican party's protestations on "civil rights" over a long period.

Certainly Mr. Nixon's reference in a public speech to "a great Warren" now will be recalled, even if, as the vice president spoke, there was some doubt whether he intended to put a vocal comma after the word "Republican."

If the Republicans really feel they must go "modern" to win next time, they have in Mr. Warren, as a presidential nominee, the incarnation of "modernism" in American politics.

First Thanksgiving

By Truman Twill

Of all the holidays we go through the motions of celebrating without understanding them, Thanksgiving is the most abused.

Most of us think of it as an occasion to celebrate the quantity and quality of food available, instead of celebrating the quantity and quality of the work that makes so much food available.

We concentrate on the turkey, instead of the phenomenon that puts so many turkeys on so many tables. We go through the motions of giving thanks for the privilege of filling our bellies, without giving thanks for the know-how that makes this the only place on earth whose medicine men admonish the natives not to eat themselves to death.

We teach our children a wispy legend about the Pilgrim fathers popping wild turkeys out of trees with their blunderbusses, thereby making it appear to their uncritical minds that America always was a land of plenty.

The fact is to the contrary.

Starvation was a fixed risk here in the founding days, just as it was everywhere else. What changed the odds against survival for the founding fathers, mothers and their hungry offspring was their determination to make it a land of plenty and have done with the specter of starvation.

They celebrated their meager success in this enterprise in 1621. Thereafter, they were to experience starvation and near-starvation many times, but they had demonstrated, with the help of a knowledgeable Indian named Squanto, that America was potentially a land of plenty, needing only the know-how to make it fruitful.

It is the untiring acquisition of know-how that should be celebrated at Thanksgiving, with special thanks for the current generation of food-producers.

For this one day, there should be a cessation of squawking and squealing about agriculture in the United States, whose composite know-how has put the fat of the land within the reach of the dependent multitude. There should be thanksgiving for the processors and distributors of food who keep striving and straining to make more of it available year by year in more palatable and attractive forms.

This is the only place on earth where dogs eat better than the people of most countries ever dreamed of eating — where there is enough food put into garbage pails to represent a sensational improvement in the subsistence diets of millions who never had a square meal in their lives and have no prospects of getting one.

The first Thanksgiving I remember was celebrated in a bleak farmhouse. The piece de resistance was a suckling pig, served up whole with a red apple clenched in its mouth. The pig and everything served with it was produced by the farmers on that farm —the stewed corn, the potatoes, the squash, the pumpkin pie and the whipped cream. The hardy souls who croaked out the Doxology that day before sitting down to eat were celebrating what they had done with their own efforts, thanks to their Creator.

To this day, it is the only Thanksgiving I can remember that was memorable. After that, like millions of other dependents, I sort of forgot where food comes from in a land of plenty and how much thanks we owe to the people who put it on the table.

About 2,500,000 Americans live in approximately 850,000 house trailers today. Twenty per cent of these are servicemen and their families; 10 per cent are retired persons; 7 per cent are salesmen, businessmen, engineers, teachers, and ministers. The remaining 63 per cent are workers with mobile occupations.

Ohio Should Tune Its Engine First

It is no secret among the Democrats who are getting ready to take Columbus by storm that the state is going to need more money to carry out an ever-expanding program of education, welfare and subsidies.

Though it is not being talked about yet, there is even the possibility the state may have to get more income to build and maintain the highway system Ohioans are thinking about these days.

The immediate pressure point in state finances will be income for the state's general fund. And the first thing that will bob up in partisan debate, it is safe to predict, will be the familiar claim that the sales tax, which provides more than half of the general fund income, is a bad tax because it is collected from everybody. Democrats favor this line of reasoning.

It will take a political miracle to keep the sales tax intact, for this reason. And it will take a miracle on top of a miracle to keep it not only intact but to improve on it, despite the fact some improvements could be made that would increase its efficiency at no additional cost to Ohioans.

The Ohio Legislative Service Commission has shown in detail that the sales tax can be made more productive without raising rates. The same study has shown that the framework of the sales tax can be made more useful with a minimum of cost to Ohioans if it becomes necessary to raise more money than the framework of a new tax.

The groundwork has been prepared for quick action, if that is what Ohio needs. Everything that needs to be known about the sales tax in Ohio has been reduced to written knowledge by the Ohio Legislative Service Commission.

Whatever may be done about other existing and potential sources of income for the general fund should be done independently of action on the sales tax, which should be put into A-1 shape before anything else is tackled.

If and when the General Assembly does this engine-tuning, moreover, it should clear up the old wheeze about the state returning sales tax money to cities. It has been obvious for a long time that city officials either do not understand or do not want to understand what they actually are receiving, not only from the so-called "local government fund" but in other forms of revenue distribution, such as poor relief.

The Ohio sales tax has worked well and can be made to work even better.

Making Sense Out Of Militarism

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces in Europe and President Eisenhower's protege; Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, former commander of U.S. forces in Europe — these are the military members.

John J. McCloy, former high commissioner for Germany and now president of Chase Manhattan National Bank; James E. Webb, a former director of the U.S. Budget Bureau; William H. Draper Jr., a former undersecretary of the army, ambassador to NATO and the man who will act as chairman of the commission—these are typical of the civilian members. Even the counsel for the group, Tracy Voorhees, is a former undersecretary of the army.

George C. McGhee, one of the other three members, is a former assistant secretary of state. Dillon Anderson is a former presidential aide on national security. Marx Leva is a former assistant secretary of defense.

Men like these could well be going after bigger game than evaluation of the U.S. military aid program. They could be gunning for a new concept of military security to replace the current concept.

Until the United States has learned to think of security in terms other than physical encirclement of the Soviet Union, to offset the Kremlin's threat that it will try to destroy this country, military spending will be a dead weight on the U.S. economy. The attempt to carry this deadweight has kept taxes high and boomed inflation.

A blue-ribbon investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. military aid could become an investigation of ways and means of making more sense of U.S. militarism. The nine outstanding citizens named by the White House to study the former may very well become the means of making more sense out of the latter.

It Goes Deeper Than The Constitution

The chatter and clamor about segregation sound pretty inconsequential when churchmen speak on the subject.

The churchmen have a special problem. If they believe what they advocate and if they advocate the brotherhood of man, they cannot go along with segregationists who advocate first-class and second-class citizenship for Southern citizens.

But unless they are blessed with parishioners who believed in the same things, they cannot advocate integration without risking their pulpits and, in some communities, the privilege of being useful. They become the prisoners of the flocks they are supposed to be leading.

Yet, in spite of their special problem, churchmen have been a strong voice for desegregation. Knowing full well that desegregation will not be feasible in religious worship for a long time to come, because it is a voluntary function and immune to any kind of public control, many churchmen have spoken out courageously for desegregation of public education.

Segregationists and bitter-end politicos milking the segregation issue have no rebuttal to the simple proposition that brotherly love and segregation are incompatible. They can split hairs about the Constitution. They can challenge the power of the federal government over the states. But even at their irreconcilable worst, they cannot challenge the admonition to love their neighbors as they love themselves. They can challenge the inclusion of the spirit of the admonition in the Constitution, but they cannot declare it out of order in the teachings of the church.

As the churchmen begin to speak out more courageously, one wonders what Supreme Court, what election, what showdown the Orval Faubuses and the J. Lindsay Almods will fall back on to put their spiritual advisers in their places.

The French Leave No Doubt About It

These are hard times for the Frenchmen who made a mockery of the Fourth Republic by running it to death in the left field of French politics. They may never get back in power.

Gaullism, which is the philosophy of discipline preached by Premier De Gaulle, has scored another triumph in elections for the new National Assembly. The leftists have been repudiated. The rightists have proved again that the pendulum of French politics is swinging in their favor.

The question raised by the rightist success is the same one that was raised when the leftists were favored by the political pendulum: Will they have the wisdom to withstand success?

Specifically, will they understand why it is necessary in politics to put moderation ahead of extremism?

The Gaullists now have no opposition strong enough to prevail against them. Even though their movement is built around the austere public character of their leader, will he be able to control the extremism of his character of their leader, will he be able to control the extremism of his followers when they begin to feel their political oats?

If not, then the rightist swing that has carried France farther away from the left than it has been in a generation is going to create the circumstances for an equally violent swing to the left.

The swing must happen sooner or later in any event. Gaullist extremism could make it happen sooner and more violently than it would need to happen. The French have tried to save themselves by giving extraordinary power to Charles de Gaulle. Their new constitution says the president of the republic "shall ensure, by his arbitration, the regular functioning of the governmental authorities, as well as the continuance of the State."

That is an invitation of extremism.

Thou Shalt Not Be Too Successful

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld's ruling against the proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube contains one passage of judicial reasoning that will be read twice and thrice by corporation lawyers with an eye for this type of work.

Referring to the companies' argument that they needed the merger to meet a demand for heavy structural shapes and plates in the Chicago area and that without it they would not know how to proceed, Judge Weinfeld said:

"The defendants' apprehensions, which, of course, involve matters of business judgment and, in a sense, matters of preference, are not persuasive in the light of their prior activities and history, their financial resources, their growth and demonstrated capacity through the years to meet the challenge of a constantly growing economy."

Or to be blunt about it, Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube always had been so successful in the past that the judge could see no reason to help them be successful in the future. He was sure they could do whatever needed to be done without asking his court to stretch Sect. 7 of the Clayton Act in their favor.

The section says:

"No corporation engaged in commerce shall acquire, directly or indirectly, the whole or any part of the stock or other share capital and no corporation subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Trade Commission shall acquire the whole or any part of the assets of another corporation engaged also in commerce, where in any line of commerce in any section of the country, the effect of such acquisition may be substantially to lessen competition or to tend to create a monopoly."

Warren In 1960?

Chief Justice Seen 'Modern' GOP Leader

Lots of things can happen in two years — and it may be that Vice President Nixon and Rockefeller will not remain the only personalities prominent in the discussion of prospective Republican nominees for the presidency. For there is always the possibility that the name of Chief Justice Warren will also be tossed into the ring.

David Lawrence

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, told a television audience the other day that, among others, Chief Justice Warren would make a good presidential nominee in 1960.

This is a significant indorsement from the man who is being hailed as having a powerful voice in the American electorate. In view of the signal success of the labor unions recently in electing to Congress a majority of Democrats, the importance of such a tribute cannot be minimized.

Mr. Warren has himself denied any presidential ambitions and has made his disclaimer about as positive as anyone can. But it will be recalled that Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes said virtually the same thing several times before he was nominated by the Republican party in 1916.

MR. HUGHES told this correspondent in no uncertain terms just a few days before the Republican National Convention that he couldn't conceive of his being nominated. He pointed out that he had not encouraged anyone to get delegates for him — indeed, had disavowed them — and had publicly refused to allow his name to go on the ballot in any primary elections. But he was drafted just the same.

Chief Justice Warren won the governorship in California in 1946 as the nominee of both parties. He is known as an outstanding votegetter.

Noting that Knowland and Nixon were unsuccessful in their efforts in the last California campaign, many Californians say Mr. Warren could have won if he had been a candidate this time.

He made a speech in San Francisco last month on federal-state relationships which was considered by some observers as having political overtones since it was delivered during the campaign.

IT IS TRUE that Mr. Warren would not attract any Southern states because of the views he expressed in the desegregation case in 1954, but the Republican party can write off the possibility of winning any electoral votes in the South no matter who the Republican nominee may be.

The sending of federal troops to Little Rock ended for years to come any chance for the Republican party in the South.

But Chief Justice Warren is the type of political personality who, it would be urged, could get the so-called "liberal" vote and the labor vote and, of course, the Negro vote overwhelmingly in the North.

If the criterion is what kind of showing a nominee could make among minority groups generally, then, political speaking, there are potent reasons for considering Earl Warren.

It is even possible for Mr. Warren to become the Democratic party nominee — if his record on so-called "liberal" issues is matched against that of any other governor or former governor whose name has been offered thus far on the Democratic side.

THERE WAS a time not so long ago — 1948 and 1951 — when in the pre-convention talk Dwight Eisenhower was often mentioned for both tickets, and indeed he was indorsed for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948 by prominent Democratic leaders, including some from the ranks of labor.

Since Mr. Warren has been so popular in the Democratic party in California, his name is one the Democrats might toss about, just as they did that of Gen. Eisenhower only a few years ago.

The one drawback for the Democrats in considering any Warren-for-President movement is that the "Solid South" would truly rebel at the polls if he were named.

But judging by the strategy of some of the Northern leaders in "cloture" and drastic legislation on "civil rights," those same leaders must feel that the electoral votes of the South are not at all necessary and that the victory in 1960 will be a landslide for the Democratic presidential nominee without the South's votes.

EARL WARREN is a man for whose rise the Republican party is largely responsible. For he owns his appointment on the high court to the recommendations received by President Eisenhower from influential members of the Republican party.

Also, the desegregation decision of 1954 is in conformity with the Republican party's protestations on "civil rights" over a long period.

Certainly Mr. Nixon's reference in a public speech to "a great Warren" now will be recalled, even if, as the vice president spoke, there was some doubt whether he intended to put a vocal comma after the word "Republican."

If the Republicans really feel they must go "modern" to win next time, they have in Mr. Warren, as a presidential nominee, the incarnation of "modernism" in American politics.

First Thanksgiving

By Truman Twill

Of all the holidays we go through the motions of celebrating without understanding them, Thanksgiving is the most abused.

Most of us think of it as an occasion to celebrate the quantity and quality of food available, instead of celebrating the quantity and quality of the work that makes so much food available.

We concentrate on the turkey, instead of the phenomenon that puts so many turkeys on so many tables. We go through the motions of giving thanks for the privilege of filling our bellies, without giving thanks for the know-how that makes this the only place on earth whose medicine men admonish the natives not to eat themselves to death.

We teach our children a wispy legend about the Pilgrim fathers popping wild turkeys out of trees with their blunderbusses, thereby making it appear to their uncritical minds that America always was a land of plenty.

The fact is to the contrary.

Starvation was a fixed risk here in the founding days, just as it was everywhere else. What changed the odds against survival for the founding fathers, mothers and their hungry offspring was their determination to make it a land of plenty and have done with the specter of starvation.

They celebrated their meager success in this enterprise in 1621. Thereafter, they were to experience starvation and near-starvation many times, but they had demonstrated, with the help of a knowledgeable Indian named Squanto, that America was potentially a land of plenty, needing only the know-how to make it fruitful.

It is the untiring acquisition of know-how that should be celebrated at Thanksgiving, with special thanks for the current generation of food-producers.

For this one day, there should be a cessation of squawking and squealing about agriculture in the United States, whose composite know-how has put the fat of the land within the reach of the dependent multitude. There should be thanksgiving for the processors and distributors of food who keep striving and straining to make more of it available year by year in more palatable and attractive forms.

This is the only place on earth where dogs eat better than the people of most countries ever dreamed of eating — where there is enough food put into garbage pails to represent a sensational improvement in the subsistence diets of millions who never had a square meal in their lives and have no prospects of getting one.

The first Thanksgiving I remember was celebrated in a bleak farmhouse. The piece de resistance was a suckling pig, served up whole with a red apple clenched in its mouth. The pig and everything served with it was produced by the farmers on that farm —the stewed corn, the potatoes, the squash, the pumpkin pie and the whipped cream. The hardy souls who croaked out the Doxology that day before sitting down to eat were celebrating what they had done with their own efforts, thanks to their Creator.

To this day, it is the only Thanksgiving I can remember that was memorable. After that, like millions of other dependents, I sort of forgot where food comes from in a land of plenty and how much thanks we owe to the people who put it on the table.

About 2,500,000 Americans live in approximately 850,000 house trailers today. Twenty per cent of these are servicemen and their families; 10 per cent are retired persons; 7 per cent are salesmen, businessmen, engineers, teachers, and ministers. The remaining 63 per cent are workers with mobile occupations.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My father and I had a big argument last night and if anyone can set him straight, you can.

I'm no giggling teen-ager. I'm 24 years old. My father is the conservative type, financially and politically. I'm quite the opposite.

I've read your column faithfully and you repeatedly tell girls who want to meet decent men not to waste time in cocktail lounges but to get active in church, literary and political groups. I took your advice and it worked. Now, here's my problem:

As you know, the political picture is getting exciting. I became active in the party of my choice and met a bright fellow in the group.

My father dislikes him because they agree on nothing politically. My friend is well informed and makes a monkey out of dad in every discussion.

Last night Dad was leaving the theater and encountered my boy friend on the street. He was passing out campaign material for the candidate of his choice. Dad came home in a rage. He woke me up to say my boy friend was a bum, and anyone who would stand on a street corner and pass out leaflets has no dignity. How about this??D.F.L.

Dear D.F.L.: If more young men would stand on street corners and pass out campaign material instead of sitting in the bars and passing out, this country would be in better shape.

There's nothing "undignified" about performing menial political jobs. The way to get votes is to go straight to the people. Candidates themselves often speak on street corners and shake hands with the public.

Averill Harriman and Nelson Rockefeller did it and they aren't bums. They are aware that elections are not won in ivory towers, but on the pavement.

A verbal carnation for your friend's lapel! A bouquet of skunk cabbage for your dad!

The Other Side

Dear Ann: I just read the sad letter signed "Broken Home Victim." I would like to tell my story, which is equally tragic but quite different. If you are fair you will print it.

I am the victim of a home that remained UNBROKEN. My parents stayed together although they hated each other and fought constantly. My father had a violent temper and I was terrified of him. I never relaxed a moment in his presence.

As a result of the tension and fear I suffered a complete breakdown in my early 30s. It required years of expensive psychiatric therapy before I could return to reasonably normal living.

I'm almost 50 now and never married because of my fear of men. I was an attractive and intelligent girl but the atmosphere in which I grew up was so hostile it killed my chances for a well-integrated life.

While "Broken Home Victim" suffered emotional injury because of her parents' divorce I feel in my case it would have been a blessing if my mother had found the courage to leave my father.

I sincerely hope that warring parents will read this letter carefully and wake up before they ruin their children's lives.—UNBROKEN HOME VICTIM.

Dear Unbroken Home Victim: Your letter was one of several expressing this point of view. Thank you for writing.

Go Fishing

Dear Ann Landers: A couple years ago I wrote and asked you why my girl friend closed her eyes when I kissed her. You told me to send you my photograph. I have been mad at you ever since. Now I have another kissing problem and if you can help me with this one, we will be friends again.

You may not believe this, Ann, but the thoughts that go through my mind when I try to get romantic with my girl are so far removed from love that I sometimes worry about myself.

Her eyes are sort of fish-like and I am reminded of a big-mouth bass going after a Shannon twin-spinner.

This is no joke. I am serious. I've considered marrying this girl as she has fine qualities, but would it work?—DOXIE.

Dear Doxie: If this girl makes you think of a fishing license, you'd better forget about a marriage license. Fine qualities or not, the pattern of association you have built up in your mind has put the dead hand on romance.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

New Gas Line Serves Area

Ceremonies Held At Chester Station

Area gas users today began drawing on a new set of pipelines giving the upper Ohio Valley a more direct link with the rich gas-producing fields of Texas and Louisiana.

Three officials of the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. turned a wheel at the Chester routing station Tuesday afternoon and an all-new $151,000 gas line was put into operation.

The line also set in motion a new gas relay based on three other area feeder lines built within the last four years at a cost of $320,000.

Wheeling district manager C. M. Taylor, area manager W. T. McIntyre of East Liverpool and division superintendent T. E. Ridge from Clinton, Pa., turned the line into operation.

Witnessing the valve - turning operations were city officials from communities benefiting from the expansion—Wellsville, East Liverpool, Chester and Newell.

Following the Chester ceremonies the gas company played host during a dinner at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Manufacturers' Chester station is the routing yard for gas deliveries to area communities. Gas is moved into Chester from Manufacturers' central supply network in western Pennsylvania through Frankfort Springs, Pa.

From Chester, gas is routed west, east or north to area customers, McIntyre explained. Construction of all - new lines east and west — forming the upper arms of a "Y" — will provide gas carrying capacity to adequately meet the greatly - increased requirements of area customers in peak zero weather, he added.

Turned into operation yesterday was some 12,000 feet of 12 - inch line running from Chester to Newell. That line ties into the West Virginia portion of a line laid last year from Newell across the river to Wellsville. Cost of that project was $153,000.

The eastern arm of the "Y" — through Chester to the east side of the community — was laid last year. That feeder joins a 1955 river crossing that runs north into the east end of East Liverpool. Cost of the two projects exceeded $165,000.

McIntyre pointed out that expansion of existing lines and construction of new carriers in the market line system helps area gas users obtain maximum benefits from the local construction.

The trunk of the "Y" — from Frankfort Springs to Chester — was bolstered last year at a cost of $50,000.

Some $1,160,000 was put into building new lines from Hickory to Primrose in Manufacturers' supply network in western Pennsylvania and from Primrose to Frankfort Springs.

Back of these improvements are several million dollars in new and larger pipelines, stepped - up development of underground storage areas and greater pumping power along the network, the official said.

Manufacturers has invested more than $165,000,000 during the last 12 years in building up its supplies and providing adequate gas-moving facilities to serve tri-state customers, McIntyre said.

AS THE VALVE WAS TURNED. W. T. McIntyre of East Liverpool, area manager; T. E. Ridge of Clinton, Pa., division superintendent, and C. M. Taylor, Wheeling district manager, are shown as they participated in ceremonies Tuesday afternoon at the Chester routing station.

Man Picked Up As Vagrant Has Plenty Of Money

CINCINNATI (AP)—The officer said, "I'm going to lock you up on a vagrancy charge so you can have something decent to eat Thanksgiving."

And he took the man he said was scavenging in a garbage can to the police station.

But booking officers got a surprise from the man, James Romanell, 55, and homeless, who was wearing ragged clothes.

A routine search of his pockets turned up a big wad of money—$230. Then a bank book turned up with deposits of $7,900.

Police changed the charge to "removing waste from a container." They told him he had enough money to post bond.

But police said he told them, "Why should I pay to get out. This is as good as any place I sleep."

West Virginia's Agencies Seek 140½ Million Budgets

CHARLESTON (AP) — Health, welfare and education account for some of the largest budget increases asked by state governmental agencies for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Commissioner George B. Vieweg Jr. of the State Department of Finance and Administration, announced yesterday that state departments have requested a total of 140½ million dollars in budgets for fiscal 1959-60. That total is 22½ million dollars more than present appropriations of the Legislature.

Vieweg explained that budget figures currently available merely cover operating expenses. Capital improvements sought by the departments were not included in his over-all money total.

Health and welfare appropriations for this fiscal year were $20,565,795. Requests for fiscal 1959-60 represent a 50 per cent increase at $30,863,050.

The Department of Public Assistance is asking for $15,819,425, which compares to $10,466,480 it was allocated for operating expenses this year.

The request for education totals $80,041,940. That represents about two-thirds of the budget total. The Legislature provided about seven million dollars less for this fiscal year.

West Virginia University, appropriated $6,671,934 this year, asked for 1½ million dollars more for 1959-60. The state colleges administered by the Board of Education also put in for budget increases.

The bulk of state money for education goes to support of the public school program. Such aid was budgeted at $52,005,220 for this year. The recent request asks for another 1½ million.

Budget requests for operating expenses during this fiscal year amounted to $133,976,884, or about 15½ million dollars more than the Legislature appropriated last winter.

Finance and Administration is the first stop for departmental and division budget requests. Commissioner Vieweg has the authority to make whatever recommendations he sees fit, either for increases or decreases. He becomes the state's budget director this time of year.

The Board of Public Works, which will meet concerning the stage budget for three days beginning Dec. 8, receives a budget document from Vieweg's department.

It is the board's job to balance the proposed appropriations and money available and modify the budget document to conform to what the Legislature might finally approve for fiscal 1959-60.

The Legislature has the final authority on the budgets, deciding on what will be appropriated and the sources of revenue from which to meet the respective allocations.

Ill-Fated Ship Was Declared As Seaworthy

CLEVELAND (AP) — Before the freighter Carl D. Bradley sank off stormy Lake Michigan, Coast Guard inspectors reported the ship was "seaworthy and fit."

Thirty - three crew members were lost when the Bradley broke in half last week. Two of her crew were rescued.

A Coast Guard investigation board headed by Rear Adm. Joseph A. Kerrins Tuesday heard testimony from two Coast Guard officers who inspected the Bradley earlier this year.

Lt. Frank M. Sperry said about 1,000 rivets on ballast tanks, inside the cargo hold, were missing or partly eroded. He said he ordered the rivets replaced, but the ship owners planned to have the tanks replated.

"I was satisfied with bolted repairs pending the replacement," Sperry said. The ship was seaworthy, he added.

Coast Guard officers dismissed as highly improbable that the missing rivets figured in the sinking. It was estimated that 100,000 rivets held the Bradley together.

Cmdr. Mark L. Hocking, officer in charge of the St. Ignace, Mich., inspection office, testified:

"As far as the boiler and engine departments were concerned the Bradley was seaworthy and fit."

The 31-year-old limestone carrier was owned and operated by Bradley Transportation Lines of Rogers City, Mich. The company is an affiliate of U.S. Steel Corp.

The investigation will resume in Rogers City on Monday.

4-Day Stay Begins In Fog

Nixons Impress Londoners By Their Smiles, Courtesy

LONDON (AP) — Britons have had their first good look at Vice President Nixon and found he measures up 100 per cent to their idea of the all-American boy.

They're just as delighted with "Nattie Patty," as the London press has dubbed Mrs. Nixon.

In the first 12 hours of their visit, the vice presidential couple impressed everyone by being smiling, courteous, deferential and so eager to please.

The Nixons' four-day stay in Britain began Tuesday in chaos. Because of fog, their plane had to land at the wrong airport and the red carpet welcome went haywire.

The Nixons smiled through it all. Being from Los Angeles, he said, the fog made them feel at home. Before he was through, everyone felt he would have been disappointed had it been a bright, clear day.

At a 500-place luncheon at London's swank Savoy Hotel, Nixon took traditional British pomp and ceremony in his American stride. The minute he finished his peaches, he popped a mint into his mouth, laughed easily and joked with his companions as the party broke up.

Lunch for Mrs. Nixon was just as informal, although most of the 25 guests at the American ambassador's residence were from Debrett's peerage. "Just all the girls together," Pat reported. "We didn't toast anybody. Not even the queen."

The Nixon smile captured the admiration of the British press. From the time the vice president and his wife left their plane until they headed for bed late Tuesday night after a reception, they were ready with what one newspaper called "the all-American smile."

Previously, most Britons had been unimpressed by Nixon, considering him a shrewd, even ruthless, political go-getter.

The amateurs are affiliated with the Parachute Club of America. They pack their own chutes. The airport is near Route 2 about six miles southeast of Chester.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My father and I had a big argument last night and if anyone can set him straight, you can.

I'm no giggling teen-ager. I'm 24 years old. My father is the conservative type, financially and politically. I'm quite the opposite.

I've read your column faithfully and you repeatedly tell girls who want to meet decent men not to waste time in cocktail lounges but to get active in church, literary and political groups. I took your advice and it worked. Now, here's my problem:

As you know, the political picture is getting exciting. I became active in the party of my choice and met a bright fellow in the group.

My father dislikes him because they agree on nothing politically. My friend is well informed and makes a monkey out of dad in every discussion.

Last night Dad was leaving the theater and encountered my boy friend on the street. He was passing out campaign material for the candidate of his choice. Dad came home in a rage. He woke me up to say my boy friend was a bum, and anyone who would stand on a street corner and pass out leaflets has no dignity. How about this??D.F.L.

Dear D.F.L.: If more young men would stand on street corners and pass out campaign material instead of sitting in the bars and passing out, this country would be in better shape.

There's nothing "undignified" about performing menial political jobs. The way to get votes is to go straight to the people. Candidates themselves often speak on street corners and shake hands with the public.

Averill Harriman and Nelson Rockefeller did it and they aren't bums. They are aware that elections are not won in ivory towers, but on the pavement.

A verbal carnation for your friend's lapel! A bouquet of skunk cabbage for your dad!

The Other Side

Dear Ann: I just read the sad letter signed "Broken Home Victim." I would like to tell my story, which is equally tragic but quite different. If you are fair you will print it.

I am the victim of a home that remained UNBROKEN. My parents stayed together although they hated each other and fought constantly. My father had a violent temper and I was terrified of him. I never relaxed a moment in his presence.

As a result of the tension and fear I suffered a complete breakdown in my early 30s. It required years of expensive psychiatric therapy before I could return to reasonably normal living.

I'm almost 50 now and never married because of my fear of men. I was an attractive and intelligent girl but the atmosphere in which I grew up was so hostile it killed my chances for a well-integrated life.

While "Broken Home Victim" suffered emotional injury because of her parents' divorce I feel in my case it would have been a blessing if my mother had found the courage to leave my father. I sincerely hope that warring parents will read this letter carefully and wake up before they ruin their children's lives.—UNBROKEN HOME VICTIM.

Dear Unbroken Home Victim: Your letter was one of several expressing this point of view. Thank you for writing.

Go Fishing

Dear Ann Landers: A couple years ago I wrote and asked you why my girl friend closed her eyes when I kissed her. You told me to send you my photograph. I have been mad at you ever since. Now I have another kissing problem and if you can help me with this one, we will be friends again.

You may not believe this, Ann, but the thoughts that go through my mind when I try to get romantic with my girl are so far removed from love that I sometimes worry about myself.

Her eyes are sort of fish-like and I am reminded of a big-mouth bass going after a Shannon twin-spinner.

This is no joke. I am serious. I've considered marrying this girl as she has fine qualities, but would it work?—DOXIE.

Dear Doxie: If this girl makes you think of a fishing license, you'd better forget about a marriage license. Fine qualities or not, the pattern of association you have built up in your mind has put the dead hand on romance.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

New Gas Line Serves Area

Ceremonies Held At Chester Station

Area gas users today began drawing on a new set of pipelines giving the upper Ohio Valley a more direct link with the rich gas-producing fields of Texas and Louisiana.

Three officials of the Manufacturers Light & Heat Co. turned a wheel at the Chester routing station Tuesday afternoon and an all-new $151,000 gas line was put into operation.

The line also set in motion a new gas relay based on three other area feeder lines built within the last four years at a cost of $320,000.

Wheeling district manager C. M. Taylor, area manager W. T. McIntyre of East Liverpool and division superintendent T. E. Ridge from Clinton, Pa., turned the line into operation.

Witnessing the valve - turning operations were city officials from communities benefiting from the expansion—Wellsville, East Liverpool, Chester and Newell.

Following the Chester ceremonies the gas company played host during a dinner at the East Liverpool Country Club.

Manufacturers' Chester station is the routing yard for gas deliveries to area communities. Gas is moved into Chester from Manufacturers' central supply network in western Pennsylvania through Frankfort Springs, Pa.

From Chester, gas is routed west, east or north to area customers, McIntyre explained. Construction of all - new lines east and west — forming the upper arms of a "Y" — will provide gas carrying capacity to adequately meet the greatly - increased requirements of area customers in peak zero weather, he added.

Turned into operation yesterday was some 12,000 feet of 12 - inch line running from Chester to Newell. That line ties into the West Virginia portion of a line laid last year from Newell across the river to Wellsville. Cost of that project was $153,000.

The eastern arm of the "Y" — through Chester to the east side of the community — was laid last year. That feeder joins a 1955 river crossing that runs north into the east end of East Liverpool. Cost of the two projects exceeded $165,000.

McIntyre pointed out that expansion of existing lines and construction of new carriers in the market line system helps area gas users obtain maximum benefits from the local construction.

The trunk of the "Y" — from Frankfort Springs to Chester — was bolstered last year at a cost of $50,000.

Some $1,160,000 was put into building new lines from Hickory to Primrose in Manufacturers' supply network in western Pennsylvania and from Primrose to Frankfort Springs.

Back of these improvements are several million dollars in new and larger pipelines, stepped - up development of underground storage areas and greater pumping power along the network, the official said.

Manufacturers has invested more than $165,000,000 during the last 12 years in building up its supplies and providing adequate gas-moving facilities to serve tri-state customers, McIntyre said.

AS THE VALVE WAS TURNED. W. T. McIntyre of East Liverpool, area manager; T. E. Ridge of Clinton, Pa., division superintendent, and C. M. Taylor, Wheeling district manager, are shown as they participated in ceremonies Tuesday afternoon at the Chester routing station.

Man Picked Up As Vagrant Has Plenty Of Money

CINCINNATI (AP)—The officer said, "I'm going to lock you up on a vagrancy charge so you can have something decent to eat Thanksgiving."

And he took the man he said was scavenging in a garbage can to the police station.

But booking officers got a surprise from the man, James Romanell, 55, and homeless, who was wearing ragged clothes.

A routine search of his pockets turned up a big wad of money—$230. Then a bank book turned up with deposits of $7,900.

Police changed the charge to "removing waste from a container." They told him he had enough money to post bond.

But police said he told them, "Why should I pay to get out. This is as good as any place I sleep."

Wall Streeters Contend Market Shakeout Healthy

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The shakeout in the stock market the first of the week has frightened few Wall Streeters. Even those who hastened to sell before prices slipped too far from their peak acted today as if they had been waiting for it rather than showing any surprise.

None pretends to know how far the deflation will carry or when a fresh vigorous upturn will come. But many call the shakeout at this time healthy.

Rapidly rising stock prices had —by most standards—discounted the general business recovery for some time to come. That is, record high stock prices could be justified, in conservative minds, only by a boom in production, sales, in profits and in dividends that most people considered many months away.

The big upswing in prices also had discounted the inflation fears that many held. These had grown after the size of the federal deficit became known, and later when many felt the election of a liberal spending Congress would aggravate it.

But inflation would have to carry much farther and in a much shorter period of time than now seems likely to catch up with the fast rise in stock prices soon.

These two big supports of the rampant bull market—confidence in a strong business recovery and fear of big inflation — have carried prices pretty high.

They had risen so high, in fact, that many traders doubtless were ready to sell at the first sign of a tumble. This could account for the big volume of selling Monday after last Friday's price weakness.

There were worrisome conditions too. Labor strife seemed to be growing. While this could lead to more inflation, through the wage-price spiral—it also meant that many companies were losing chances for a quick return to better profits.

Earnings, although improving, were still disquietingly below their peak. And profit margins were still squeezed by rising costs — threatening to hold down dividends for some time to come.

Foreign news in recent days had been upsetting. Stock traders dislike uncertainties.

Confidence which bloomed so brightly in the early days of the recovery tended to shrivel a bit when the fast rate turned to a slower pace—although this is common to most business recoveries.

All of this had been building up at a time when what professional traders call technical factors were against further steady rises in stock prices.

The market was at a point where many speculators were ready to take their profits and cut their risks.

The short interest had dropped. That is, the number of those who had sold borrowed stocks and must support the market later by buying them for replacement was less than in the booming bullish days, thus shrinking one cushion under the fall.

Also, this is the period when traders readjust their portfolios for tax purposes.

The market was thin. That is, the vast majority of outstanding stocks were in the hands of investors, institutional or individual, who had bought them at much lower prices than today's but weren't putting them on the market, either because they thought them good long-term investments or because they didn't want to pay capital gains taxes.

With few stocks available for trading, big swings up or down in prices are common.

And for some time now, top-grade bonds have produced a better yield at their deflated prices than have blue chip common stocks at their record prices. Thus there was an incentive to sell stocks and buy bonds.

All of this may be why the market tumbled badly the first of the week.

None of it necessarily proves that the market will be greatly depressed, nor that it won't go to still greater heights in the future.

Over Tax Indictment

Minister Faces Deadline To Free Self On Contempt

CINCINNATI (AP)—A law professor pored over his case books Tuesday night hunting for a key to the riddle of a stubborn minister who prefers to stay in jail.

The minister: The Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin, who won't pay income tax.

The professor: Fred A. Dewey, one of two court-named attorneys for the pastor. Dewey is a University of Cincinnati teacher.

Today is the deadline for the minister to free himself of a contempt charge by agreeing to cooperate with U. S. District Court on a tax indictment. He says he'd rather stay in jail.

The attorney is trying to track down what he figures is a flaw in the ruling of Judge John H. Druffel last Monday that sent the Rev. Mr. McCrackin to jail indefinitely.

But the attorney said Tuesday night that so far, "This case is unique as far as I'm concerned.

"I can't find anything like this anywhere—nothing where a defendent has refused to cooperate with anyone at all and has taken the stand that the Rev. McCrackin takes.

"But as long as I'm acting as his attorney, I'll see that he is not deprived of his legal rights.

"I know he won't change his mind. He's sincere and dedicated and believes he is trying to live as he thinks Christ would under the circumstances."

But there is some doubt if Dewey and attorney Theodore M. Berry are actually the minister's attorneys.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin has heeded none of their counsel and considers them friends of the court, but not his spokesmen.

The bachelor pastor's view of non-cooperation extends to his county jail cell where he started a fast when committed Monday.

As of today, he has still eaten nothing, and refused to talk, answer questions, sign bond papers or aid any civil officers, from the federal judge to the guard at the jail.

The minister says he believes war is the greatest evil. For ten years, he has paid little or no income tax because it helps pay for arms.

He won't aid the court because "they're trying to coerce my conscience." He was indicted on a charge he failed to answer a summons to confer on his taxes.

Federal Court aides had to get him from church and carry him into the Federal Building—once to a hearing and twice to arraignment sessions.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin is pastor of St. Barnabas Church, a Presbyterian - Episcopal church, and he directs a church-connected neighborhood house.

But he considers taxes and the charge private matters and has never referred to them in his sermons.

A church spokesman says the congregation of about 300 white and Negro members does not support the idea of non-payment of taxes. But they back their pastor from the "standpoint of Christianity."

Judge Druffel said Monday there is no limit on length a person can stay in jail on a contempt citation.

U. S. Atty. Thomas Stueve agreed. He said release can come on the judge's own motion or from action by someone else objecting to the court order.

Dewey said, "We objected to the procedure under which Mr. McCrackin (sic) was cited for contempt. And we are studying the matter to determine whether any action to have the order set aside would be appropriate."

Condemned Man's Appeal For Legal Aid Gets Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A condemned man's plea for legal help to stay out of Ohio's electric chair is getting action.

Yet it may be of no avail to Walter J. Byomin. The 42-year-old Clevelander is in Ohio Penitentiary under death sentence for killing Deputy Edmund G. Smith in Wellington on May 4, 1957.

Byomin's letter from death row to the U. S. Supreme Court got him a 90-day stay from his scheduled Nov. 7 electrocution. He complained that he could not get legal help to appeal his first degree murder conviction to the highest court in the land. Ohio's Supreme Court has turned him down.

President William R. Van Aken of Cleveland said the Ohio State Bar Assn. had looked into the case and decided not to intervene. "We have complete confidence in the courts," he explained.

Van Aken said the association's executive committee would meet in Columbus next Friday to consider a program for handling the cases of condemned men and long-term prisoners who can't afford counsel. He said legal aid societies were not equipped to handle such cases.

"We don't want anyone to go to the chair without having exhausted all the efforts the law allows," Van Aken said, "but we can't act as a sort of super-court."

Van Aken said his executive committee devoted more time to the case of Byomin and others than to association business. Before the U. S. Supreme Court acted, he wrote to Gov. C. William O'Neill asking a stay of execution for time to find help for Byomin.

Van Aken said Lorain County Bar Assn. officers told him Byomin had a fair trial and was defended competently by court-appointed attorneys.

Those attorneys appealed his conviction to the appellate and state supreme courts without compensation, the officers pointed out. They also participated at their own expense in hearings before the Pardon and Parole Commission and the governor. They declined to appeal to the federal court.

Statute provides for payment of court-appointed attorneys in first degree murder cases at the descretion of the trial court. Van Aken said such fees are only a fraction of usual amount paid for such services.

Byomin's problem is to get legal help in preparing papers necessary for further appeal. If those papers win a review, the highest court then would appoint counsel to present Byomin's plea.

Byomin's attorneys claimed the death sentence was unwarranted because the fatal shooting was not premeditated. They said he likely would have been convicted of second degree murder if the victim had not been an officer.

The prosecution said Byomin was carrying a gun illegally while on parole from federal prison for armed robbery and was determined to shoot it out with Smith in a pursuing police car rather than submit to capture.

The pursuit followed an argument with others over his attentions to Mrs. Helen Bristow in Wellington.

72 Candidates Given Degree At Kaycee Session In Midland

The third degree was conferred on 72 candidates of the 49th and 50th Knights of Columbus districts at exemplification ceremonies Sunday afternoon in the Steelworkers Union Hall in Midland.

The degree was conducted by Emeric P. Davis of Midland, 49th District deputy, assisted by Jack Rivetti of Aliquippa, 50th District deputy.

Following the ceremonies, a banquet for 325 Kaycees and their guests was held in St. Anthony's Hall. The Rev. Philip Clarke, director of development for the College of Steubenville, spoke on "Knights of Columbus in the World of Today."

Remarks also were given by Davis, Rivetti, Jake Sopko of New Kensington, Pennsylvania state warden; John Sipple of Beaver Falls, state chairman of council activities, and James Palmer of Pittsburgh, state chairman of ceremonials and degrees.

The welcome address was delivered by Burgess Eli Corak. Louis Bruno, grand knight of Midland Council 2005, introduced Atty. Robert Masters, toastmaster.

The invocation and benediction were offered by Fr. Robert Garland and Fr. John Corbett, assistant pastors of Presentation Catholic Church.

Guests included Leonard Orie, editor of the Party Line, state Kaycee publication; Henry Hamelly of Grove City, state public relations chairman; James McGowan of East Liverpool, 39th Ohio District deputy; Mark DeAngelis, president of the Beaver County Chapter, and grand knights James Buchheit of East Liverpool, Anthony Kubick of Aliquippa, Dr. Regis Ging of Ambridge, Paul Facilio of Beaver Falls and John Sylman of Rochester.

Green Light Given Union For Drive In Hotel Industry

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union says it has the green light to start a high gear campaign of organizing in the hotel industry.

A spokesman at union headquarters here said Tuesday a U. S. Supreme Court decision last Monday is the key to its plans.

The decision ruled the National Labor Relations Board must handle hotel - union labor disputes which it declined for a number of years.

The union spokesman said its executive board will meet in February to lay out plans for the drive, and added prospects are to add 300,000 members to its roster of about 450,000, in the next few years.

The high court ruling came on a union appeal stemming from a 1955 Miami Beach hotel strike. The union asked the NLRB to schedule an election but was refused.

The NLRB had held previously that hotels are local and have little effect on interstate commerce.

Wellsville Chief Gives Warning On Firearms

Police Chief John Hephner of Wellsville today issued a warning that it is illegal for any person to shoot pigeons or use a gun in any manner within the Wellsville city limits.

Several public and school buildings have large flocks of pigeons roosting on window sills and in the eaves.

There is too much danger of someone getting shot or of windows being broken to allow the pigeons to be destroyed by shooting them, he said.

It's Darn Lucky He Wasn't Playing Drum

NEW YORK (AP) — Murray Schneider's defense to a charge that he was speeding on the Franklin D. Roosevelt drive at 55 miles an hour was a novel one, Magistrate Hyman Bushel admitted, but not good enough.

"How could I be speeding?" Schneider asked the magistrate. "I was holding on to the wheel with only one hand and I was playing the harmonica with the other."

"It's a darn lucky thing you weren't playing the drum," Magistrate Bushel retorted. "Guilty! Fine is $5."

Discharges Law For GI's Permits School Training

GI Bill training opportunities have been extended by a new law to World War II and Korean War veterans whose military discharges have been changed from "dishonorable," "undesirable" and the like to "honorable," A. G. Bille, contact representative-in-charge of the Veterans Administration Office, in Steubenville announced today.

The law gives World War II veterans, whose discharges have been changed, four years to start training under the World War II GI Bill.

Korean War veterans will have three years to begin training under the Korean GI Bill.

The VA contact representative explained that one of the basic requirements of both GI bills is a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable.

In some instances the branches of service have reviewed less-than-dishonorable discharges and have changed them to honorable, whenever the facts warranted the change.

But very often these new honorable discharges came too late for veterans to make use of their newfound GI training opportunities, since their deadlines for starting training have passed.

The new law gives them a renewed opportunity to take GI training, should they want it.

Bille said that these veterans may apply for GI training at the VA Office, 227 N. 5th St., Steubenville. Along with their applications, they should include a photostat or certified true copy of their new honorable discharge certificate. The VA Office can answer their questions as to eligibility.

Judge Takes $105,000 Suit Under Advisement

CLEVELAND (AP) — Judge Paul C. Weick of U. S. District Court has taken under advisement a $105,000 damage suit filed on behalf of a boy who lost his right eye.

Trial of the case was completed Tuesday.

Mrs. and Mrs. Michael Simmons of Wilmington, Del., are suing the Gibbs Manufacturing Co. of Canton. They contend a spring from a mechanical top manufactured by Gibbs struck their son, Paul, 5, in the eye. Doctors later removed the eye.

Attorneys for the company produced evidence that 13 million of such tops had been manufactured and sold by Gibbs. They said this was the first time such an accident had been reported.

Between Defense, Prosecution

Sparks May Fly Again In 'Torch' Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Blonde Edythe Klumpp goes to court today for a second murder charge hearing that may strike sparks again between defense and prosecution.

Her attorney, William F. Hopkins said Tuesday night he's willing to waive to the grand jury if the state nails down some details in the death of Mrs. Martha Louis Bergen, 32.

Mrs. Klumpp, 40, was charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bergen, whose fire-charred body was found on a state reservation near Wilmington.

Police asked for a delay at the first preliminary hearing last week when Hopkins questioned the time and place of Mrs. Bergen's death.

Hopkins said he wants the state to establish that the death occurred in Ohio and that the death resulted from some outside force.

"It is up to them to prove venue (where death occurred)", he said, and a corpus delicti.

"I would like to explain that corpus delicti is not meant to be just a body but they must prove to my satisfaction that they have a dead body with death resulting from some outside force," Hopkins explained.

The question of where Mrs. Bergen died has plagued investigators since her body was found by hunters Nov. 1.

The State Highway Patrol filed a first degree murder charge at Wilmington and Cincinnati police followed with their charge, filed here. The Ohio Criminal Code allows prosecution in either county under conditions of this case.

Officers said Mrs. Klumpp, who had been living with Mrs. Bergen's estranged husband told them Mrs. Bergen was shot in the throat accidentally in a struggle over a gun after the two discussed the chances of Mrs. Bergen obtaining a divorce. This occurred in Hamilton County, she said.

Mrs. Klumpp told officers she had put the body in the trunk of her car, taught a sewing class that night, and next day drove to Lake Cowan where she burned the body with gasoline.

Dr. Frank Cleveland, county pathologist, reported after his first autopsy he found two skull fractures and that Mrs. Bergen may have been alive when burned. A second examination revealed traces of metal in the throat and carbon monoxide in the blood. He said this may have come from exhaust fumes of the Klumpp auto.

Police said Mrs. Klumpp told them she wanted to marry Bergen, a grocery chain employee, if Mrs. Bergen would agree to a divorce.

But Bergen told officers subsequently he wanted a reconciliation, and had told this to Mrs. Klumpp.

Investigators said lie detector tests satisfied them Bergen had no part in his wife's death.

A spokesman at union headquarters here said Tuesday a U. S. Supreme Court decision last Monday is the key to its plans.

The decision ruled the National Labor Relations Board must handle hotel - union labor disputes which it declined for a number of years.

The union spokesman said its executive board will meet in February to lay out plans for the drive, and added prospects are to add 300,000 members to its roster of about 450,000, in the next few years.

The high court ruling came on a union appeal stemming from a 1955 Miami Beach hotel strike. The union asked the NLRB to schedule an election but was refused.

The NLRB had held previously that hotels are local and have little effect on interstate commerce.

Wellsville Chief Gives Warning On Firearms

Police Chief John Hephner of Wellsville today issued a warning that it is illegal for any person to shoot pigeons or use a gun in any manner within the Wellsville city limits.

Several public and school buildings have large flocks of pigeons roosting on window sills and in the eaves.

There is too much danger of someone getting shot or of windows being broken to allow the pigeons to be destroyed by shooting them, he said.

It's Darn Lucky He Wasn't Playing Drum

NEW YORK (AP) — Murray Schneider's defense to a charge that he was speeding on the Franklin D. Roosevelt drive at 55 miles an hour was a novel one, Magistrate Hyman Bushel admitted, but not good enough.

"How could I be speeding?" Schneider asked the magistrate. "I was holding on to the wheel with only one hand and I was playing the harmonica with the other."

"It's a darn lucky thing you weren't playing the drum," Magistrate Bushel retorted. "Guilty! Fine is $5."

Discharges Law For GI's Permits School Training

GI Bill training opportunities have been extended by a new law to World War II and Korean War veterans whose military discharges have been changed from "dishonorable," "undesirable" and the like to "honorable," A. G. Bille, contact representative-in-charge of the Veterans Administration Office, in Steubenville announced today.

The law gives World War II veterans, whose discharges have been changed, four years to start training under the World War II GI Bill.

Korean War veterans will have three years to begin training under the Korean GI Bill.

The VA contact representative explained that one of the basic requirements of both GI bills is a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable.

In some instances the branches of service have reviewed less-than-dishonorable discharges and have changed them to honorable, whenever the facts warranted the change.

But very often these new honorable discharges came too late for veterans to make use of their newfound GI training opportunities, since their deadlines for starting training have passed.

The new law gives them a renewed opportunity to take GI training, should they want it.

Bille said that these veterans may apply for GI training at the VA Office, 227 N. 5th St., Steubenville. Along with their applications, they should include a photostat or certified true copy of their new honorable discharge certificate. The VA Office can answer their questions as to eligibility.

Judge Takes $105,000 Suit Under Advisement

CLEVELAND (AP) — Judge Paul C. Weick of U. S. District Court has taken under advisement a $105,000 damage suit filed on behalf of a boy who lost his right eye.

Trial of the case was completed Tuesday.

Mrs. and Mrs. Michael Simmons of Wilmington, Del., are suing the Gibbs Manufacturing Co. of Canton. They contend a spring from a mechanical top manufactured by Gibbs struck their son, Paul, 5, in the eye. Doctors later removed the eye.

Attorneys for the company produced evidence that 13 million of such tops had been manufactured and sold by Gibbs. They said this was the first time such an accident had been reported.

Between Defense, Prosecution

Sparks May Fly Again In 'Torch' Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Blonde Edythe Klumpp goes to court today for a second murder charge hearing that may strike sparks again between defense and prosecution.

Her attorney, William F. Hopkins said Tuesday night he's willing to waive to the grand jury if the state nails down some details in the death of Mrs. Martha Louis Bergen, 32.

Mrs. Klumpp, 40, was charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bergen, whose fire-charred body was found on a state reservation near Wilmington.

Police asked for a delay at the first preliminary hearing last week when Hopkins questioned the time and place of Mrs. Bergen's death.

Hopkins said he wants the state to establish that the death occurred in Ohio and that the death resulted from some outside force.

"It is up to them to prove venue (where death occurred)", he said, and a corpus delicti.

"I would like to explain that corpus delicti is not meant to be just a body but they must prove to my satisfaction that they have a dead body with death resulting from some outside force," Hopkins explained.

The question of where Mrs. Bergen died has plagued investigators since her body was found by hunters Nov. 1.

The State Highway Patrol filed a first degree murder charge at Wilmington and Cincinnati police followed with their charge, filed here. The Ohio Criminal Code allows prosecution in either county under conditions of this case.

Officers said Mrs. Klumpp, who had been living with Mrs. Bergen's estranged husband told them Mrs. Bergen was shot in the throat accidentally in a struggle over a gun after the two discussed the chances of Mrs. Bergen obtaining a divorce. This occurred in Hamilton County, she said.

Mrs. Klumpp told officers she had put the body in the trunk of her car, taught a sewing class that night, and next day drove to Lake Cowan where she burned the body with gasoline.

Dr. Frank Cleveland, county pathologist, reported after his first autopsy he found two skull fractures and that Mrs. Bergen may have been alive when burned. A second examination revealed traces of metal in the throat and carbon monoxide in the blood. He said this may have come from exhaust fumes of the Klumpp auto.

Police said Mrs. Klumpp told them she wanted to marry Bergen, a grocery chain employee, if Mrs. Bergen would agree to a divorce.

But Bergen told officers subsequently he wanted a reconciliation, and had told this to Mrs. Klumpp.

Investigators said lie detector tests satisfied them Bergen had no part in his wife's death.

The deadline for the reports is Dec. 19 at 4 p. m. They are required of all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and from committees that supported or opposed any candidate or issue in the general election. The campaign expense reports are provided for in the "corrupt practices act," which puts a ceiling on election spending.

Air Academy Choice Over Colorado U.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the weekend where you must decide between a drum stick or a dumb pick. Here's the season's final forecast of college football winners:

Army over Navy: Both clubs started the season with great prospects. The Cadets matured while the Middies were stymied by injuries. The season's experience benefits the Army most and gives the Cadets the edge. Anderson and Dawkins to shine. This one you can see for yourself on TV Saturday.

Auburn over Alabama: The Auburn defense is too tough, but on Saturday it won't be anything like that 40-0 walkover of a year ago.

Texas over Texas A&M: You may watch this one Thursday afternoon while digesting your turkey. The Longhorns finish in high gear.

Pittsburgh over Penn State: Both lost to Nebraska, which won only three games all season. The home field gives Pitt the edge. A Thursday contest.

Air Force over Colorado: A fancy victory for the Air Force undoubtedly means a bowl bid. But the Flyer brass will have an anxious Saturday afternoon despite Brock Storm's stellar play.

Notre Dame over Southern California: That balmy California weather is just what the doctor ordered for George Izo's pitching arm. Another Saturday game.

Skipping over the others::

THURSDAY

Brown over Colgate, Cincinnati over Miami (Ohio), Colorado State University over Denver, Penn over Cornell, Richmond over William and Mary, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Tulsa over Wichita, Utah over Utah State, Virginia Military over Virginia Tech.

SATURDAY

Arizona State over Marquette, Rice over Baylor, Florida over Miami, Georgia Tech over Georgia, Houston over Texas Tech, Texas Christian over Southern Methodist, Mississippi over Mississippi State, Oklahoma over Oklahoma State, Vanderbilt over Tennessee, George Washington over The Citadel, Clemson over Furman.

MIDLAND WINS TROPHY. Midland High School's Leopards were presented with Beaver County's Class A championship football trophy at a student assembly Tuesday morning in the school. The award was donated by the Geneva College Alumni Association and must be won three consecutive times to be retired. Coach John Petchel's team was undefeated in Beaver County A ranks this season with five straight victories. Aliquippa was named Class AA champ. Shown admiring the trophy, held by David A. Graham, president of the Geneva Alumni Association, are Nick Vuckovich, left, and Steve Ordich, right, co-captains of this year's Midland team. Coach Petchel is shown in the background. New Brighton and Beaver were runners-up in the A race with identical 4-2 marks.

Thanksgiving Day Games Open Last Big Weekend Of College Grid Slate

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football goes into its last big weekend of the season Thursday with a handful of traditional Thanksgiving Day games that could provide a bowl boost for Pitt, Cincinnati, Miami (Ohio), Tulsa and Virginia Military.

Alabama, Clemson, Air Force, Georgia Tech and Southern Methodist get their final shots at bowl bids Saturday.

Only the Rose (Iowa vs. California) and Orange (Oklahoma vs. Syracuse) are set among the five major bowls. The Sugar has Louisiana State in hand and the Cotton has Texas Christian lined up, but each needs another team. The Gator Bowl needs a pair.

The Blue Grass Bowl, a newcomer, also needs two teams, while the Tangerine Bowl needs an opponent for Buffalo, which accepted a berth Tuesday.

Pitt, a prospect for both the Blue Grass and the Gator, goes against Penn State Thursday in the regular-season windup for both. Each has a 5-3-1 record.

Cincinnati and Miami (Ohio) both are under bowl consideration Cincinnati by the Blue Grass and Miami by the Tangerine. They play Thursday at Cincinnati.

In other games Thursday, it's the Texas A&M at Texas, VMI at Virginia Tech, Wichita at Tulsa, Colorado State U. at Denver, William and Mary at Richmond, Utah State at Utah, Cornell at Penn, Wake Forest at South Carolina and Colgate at Brown. The Texas-A&M game will be televised nationally.

Tulsa is on both the Tangerine and Blue Grass lists. VMI is among Tangerine Bowl possibles, along with Mississippi Southern, East Texas State and Florida State, the probable choice.

Saturday's big game is the Army-Navy brawl at Philadelphia. Notre Dame is at Southern Cal for their annual battle, and Oklahoma makes its final pre-Orange Bowl appearance in a game with state rival Oklahoma State.

Air Force plays Colorado, and the Falcons will announce their decision on the Cotton Bowl afterward. Alabama, a top choice by the Blue Grass committee, goes against unbeaten but bowl-banned Auburn. Georgia Tech shoots the works against Georgia. Clemson tries to nail the Sugar Bowl bid against Furman. Florida tries for the Blue Grass against Miami (Fla), and SMU makes its pitch for an upset against TCU and a trip to either the Sugar or Gator Bowl.

Paralyzed Roy Campanella Thankful Of Many Things

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Paralyzed Roy Campanella, facing the prospect of spending the remainder of his life in a wheel chair, called himself a lucky man today and said he had many things to be thankful for.

The former star catcher of baseball, who has slimmed down from 215 to 185 pounds after his long siege in the hospital as a result of his tragic automobile accident nearly 10 months ago, is back home.

Last Thanksgiving, robust and spry, he was eagerly looking forward to his move to Los Angeles with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Now, he puts in painful hours each day trying to rebuild his muscles in the hope that someday he may be able just to walk again.

Campy admits that day may never come but he hasn't lost hope and the warm and friendly smile that won so many friends for him is still on his thinned-down face.

"I keep telling myself how lucky I've been," he said. "I just keep thanking God I'm alive and I had a house and a family to come back to. Look at poor Mel Ott. He was in an automobile crackup too. He's dead. I'm only paralyzed. I said a little prayer for Mel and I sent him a wire but I guess he never got to read it."

Yes, Campy was home and he was happy. He no longer was burdened by the neck brace he had worn since last January when he underwent an operation on his broken neck. He is still paralyzed from the chest down, however, and he has to be lifted from his bed into the wheel chair. He has to be dressed and undressed. He is constantly attended by a male nurse. He needs an appliance on his hand to feed himself, to lift objects, to sign his name. He still has no movement in his fingers.

"Yes, I've got so many things to be thankful for," he said. "I'm thankful no member of my family was with me at the time of the accident. I'm thankful I've got all my sense. I'm thankful just to be home, surrounded by my family."

As Campy was talking, he kept caressing his 5-year-old daughter Princess, who was sitting on his lap, squealing delightedly while manipulating the battery-operated wheel chair for her daddy. Roy Jr., 10, and Tony, 8, two others of Campanella's six children, were running from room to room, playing a game of tag. Roy's wife Ruthe was busily engaged in the kitchen helping her mother prepare for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Roy's eyes glistened as he watched the activity.

"Look at the kids," he exclaimed. "They're not worried about me being in the wheel chair. 'Daddy's home.' That's all they care about. I have trouble keeping them out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're all in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

As Campy spoke he kept flexing his wrists, flailing his withered arms across his body, and raising them over his head. He kept pivoting his shoulders in quarter turns.

"I got to keep doing that to prevent a tightness of the muscles," he explained. "I still have no feeling in my legs but I know my insides are all right and I feel strong.

"It's a new life for me. I'm starting all over again. You learn to put up with a lot of things you'd ordinarily gripe about. Sometimes I wonder how long this might go on. But I get such thoughts out of my head quickly. You got to keep thinking good thoughts. Otherwise you could go nutty."

Roy's voice is vibrant now as it was before the accident. Except for his arms, which are painfully thin, he looks robust enough. He visits the Institute for Physical Rehabilitation three days a week and spends five hours a day lifting weights and exercising his muscles.

Celtics Rap Southern City On Racial Issue

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics threatened today to refuse to book any more National Basketball Assn. games in Charlotte, N. C., because of segregation practices in the Southern city.

Iowa, Auburn To Win Titles In Statistics

By The Associated Press

Bowl-bound Iowa and bowl-banned Auburn are virtually certain to grab a couple of college football's statistical championships this season. But eight of nine other major college team leaders must wait until the end of the campaign before they can claim titles.

Iowa, winner of the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl nomination, has a total offense average of 405.9 yards per game, according to NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today.

Army, in second place, has a 384.1 average and would have to amass 580 yards against Navy Saturday to catch the Hawkeyes. The Air Force Academy, third with 382.8 yards, would have to do even better against Colorado.

Auburn, defending champion in the total defense department, has yielded an average of 150.1 yards a game. Runner-up Purdue, its season over, gave up 176.7 yards and Army so far has yielded 178.8 a game.

Rutgers seems fairly sure to take the scoring title. The Scarlet has averaged 33.4 points a game on a 301-point total. Army, with a 30.3 average and Oklahoma with 30.2, would have to score 59 and 62 points, respectively, to draw even.

Oklahoma's 266.6 yard rushing average might be beaten by Penn State (258.4), Arizona State (254.2) or College of the Pacific (249.9).

The other leaders:

Passing offense — Army 175.6 yards per game. The Cadets need at least 125 air yards against Navy to stay ahead of Iowa, 170.0.

Rushing defense — Tulsa 78.0 yards a game; Auburn 78.2.

Pass defense — Iowa State, 39.0 yards a game, Brown, 41.5.

Punting — Georgia, 42.1 yard average, and Georgia Tech, 40.5, play each other.

Scoreboard defense — Louisiana State, 5.30 points a game, Oregon (5.33), Army (5.38) and Oklahoma (5.44).

Punt returns — Princeton, 16.5 yard average, Vanderbilt, 16.2.

By R. L. LIDE

Last Saturday could very well be called "opening day' of the small game season. The weather was perfect, hunters were everywhere — and must have been well behaved, since I did not receive one complaint.

One of the sneakiest so - called sportsman is the trapper who insists on stealing fur out of another trapper's trap. Sometimes this type steals trap and all. I get many complaints about this.

Stealing does not come under my jurisdiction. One fellow asked me what he could do about it and I told him he could lay in wait and catch the thief, have him arrested for petty larceny, make him return the traps and stolen furs or just "clobber" him.

Each trapper should have a secret mark filed into his traps so he could readily identify them.

THE MEANEST thief is the one that steals traps from some farm boy trapping on his own farm.

Fur prices are low and some fur buyers won't buy raccoon pelts. Levi Fox, a fur - buyer in Salem, pays as much as 50 cents for large raccoon pelts and runs the risk of getting stuck with them.

Large muskrats bring 75 cents and No. 1 male mink $10. Top price for females is $5.

I asked Levi what he thought about Ohio beaver pelts and what they would bring on the market if we had an open season.

In his opinion $5 would be about the top price for large blanket pelts. At present, he said, Canadian blanket beavers are only bringing $10 to $12.

Beavers definitely have a place in the general pattern of wildlife, but I certainly get lots of complaints about them. Flooding lowlands and plugging up culverts are common offenses.

ANY LANDOWNER has the legal right to tear out their dams and keep tearing them out until they get discouraged and move on some place else. In this case you chase the trouble off your property while they become a nusiance on the other fellows premises.

When it comes to skinning a beaver, that is quite a task.

Every inch of the pelt has to be cut. You can't remove any part of the hide by pulling, like skinning other fur bearers.

With all the effort it takes to trap a beaver, skin it and scrape and scrape until you remove all the flesh, it would be a hard earned $5 if it were legal.

I can't help but wonder what the final outcome will be relative to beavers. They're not worth much, keep increasing in numbers and will have to be dealt with sooner or later.

Just mention the word "beaver" to game protectors in this section and they would start tearing out their hair if it would help.

Lisbon Has 4 Lettermen For 1958-59 Cage Season

Lisbon High's coach Jack Mills will launch his 14th consecutive basketball season at the Columbiana County school Dec. 9 with two regulars and two letter winners in the fold from last year's losing club.

The Mount Union grad figures this year's club will be long on experience, but will have a minimum of height and depth as graduation took most of the mainstays on the 1957 squad.

Returnees from the 5-12 outfit last year are Bob Pike, 6-feet, and Denny Reese, 5-feet, 9-inches, both seniors, in addition to Ron Lee, 5-feet, 10-inches, and Charles Faust, 6-feet, 2-inches, who lettered last year.

Graduation claimed six members of the 1957 squad, including Curtis Nicholson, a 6-5 center, Ralph Lee, Dick Koffel, Bill Minton, Glen Koffel and Ed Brooks. Although posting a losing season, the Blue Devils of 1957 fared well in the tournament grind, making it as far as the sectionals before losing to Youngstown Rayen.

In addition to the two regulars and the pair of letter winners, Mills has other top varsity candidates in Chal Thorne and Don Rudibaugh, a newcomer, both seniors, and Jim Tanner, Tom Brooks and Paul McGaffic, up from the reserve squad.

Sophomores Steve Frew, Paul Fry and Dick Early also are varsity candidates.

Faust, Rudibaugh and Pike, all experienced and rangy, are being counted on for most of the scoring. Lee, although one of the shortest on the squad, is fast and was one of last year's playmakers.

Paul McLaughlin, a 6-feet, 1-inch junior, can add height to the starting lineup along with Jim Tanner, a 6-foot junior.

Losing seasons have been the exception with Mills in his career at Lisbon, as his squads have managed to win at least a dozen games each season for the past several years.

Mills, who was an All-City selection while attending Youngstown South High School, is being assisted this year by a former protege, Gary Pike. Pike was an All Tri-County player while performing for Lisbon High and is a graduate of Muskingum College.

Hawks Defeated For First Time Under Macauley

By The Associated Press

Easy Ed Macauley may only have been joking. But he had good reason to be serious today.

The new coach of the St. Louis Hawks, who replaced Andy Phillip last week, spoke at a luncheon in New York Tuesday.

Addressing his remarks to Ned Irish, president of the New York Knickerbockers, Macauley said:

"You hired Fuzzy Levane after he had been dropped by the Hawks. You might have to make room for me. I could be next."

Macauley's comment was an obvious reference to St. Louis owner Ben Kerner, who changes National Basketball Assn. coaches almost as often as Frank Lane switches ballplayers.

Tuesday night, Macauley pleaded with his players, stomped his feet and yelled at the referees. But it was to no avail as the Hawks dropped a 106-105 verdict to the Philadelhia Warriors in the opener of a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden.

It was the first loss for the Hawks under Macauley after two victories.

The Cincinnati Royals snapped New York's eight-game winning streak 115-113 in the Garden nightcap. In the other game on the league slate, the Minneapolis Lakers edged the Detroit Pistons 98-90.

Defiance Cagers Win

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Defiance College captured the lead in the early minutes of a basketball game here Tuesday night and never let go of it, defeating Tri-State College (Ind.), 71-50.

University of North Dakota football coach Whitey Helling has won seven championships in 10 years of high school and college coaching.

Olson TKO's Young In 6th

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Chalk up another one sided victory for Bobo Olson, a hungry former middleweight champion now fighting as a light-heavy.

Bobo pounded Paddy Young into submission in six rounds Tuesday night. Referee Jack Downey went over to pug nose Paddy's corner after the sixth and was told by the seconds the New Yorker had had enough.

After the fight, each boxer said the other hit much harder than when they fought five years ago for the American middleweight title. Bobo won that one, too.

Young, four pounds lighter than the San Franciscan's 174, was covered with blood from a cut right eye, suffered in the opening round, a nose bleed in the second and a split left eyebrow in the fifth.

Under California rules, the fight goes into the record book as Olson's 32nd knockout. Young had been stopped only three times before in 10 years.

Lions, Packers To Tangle In TV Battle Thursday

DETROIT (AP) — A nationwide television audience will get a chance to see the defending world champion Detroit Lions in action Thanksgiving Day, and Coach George Wilson is encouraging comment from the fans.

"If any of them see what's wrong with the Lions this year, I hope they'll let me in on it," said the Lions' head coach.

The bottom has dropped out of the Lions this season. Atfer winning the world championship in dramatic, come from-behind style in last season's stretch drive, the Lions have had just about everything go against them this year.

"I've always said you have to be real lucky in this league," Wilson added. "This season just proves I'm right. Last year, we were getting all the breaks, and we took advantage of them and won the close ones. This year, the ball has bounced the other way. We can't seem to do anything right — not for very long at a stretch, anyway."

The Lions, 3-5-1 for the season, meet the Green Bay Packers Thursday in the traditional Thanksgiving Day clash at Briggs Stadium.

Game time is 12 noon, and Detroit is favored. The Packers, who have only one victory in nine games, battled the Lions to a 13-13 tie earlier this year in Green Bay.

Stitch Meets Bahama In TV Bout Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Welterweight Rudell Stitch meets Yama Bahama in a nationally televised (ABC) 10-rounder here tonight.

Bahama, from the Bahamas, West Indies, weighed three pounds over the stipulated 150 pounds Tuesday but Manager Bobby Melnick said he would be ready by the 10 p. m. (EST) fight time.

Stitch, of Louisville, has a record of 15 victories in 19 fights. Bahama has had 61 bouts, with 51 wins, 8 losses and 2 draws.

Army, Auburn, Texas, Pitt And Notre Dame Are Favored

Air Academy Choice Over Colorado U.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the weekend where you must decide between a drum stick or a dumb pick. Here's the season's final forecast of college football winners:

Army over Navy: Both clubs started the season with great prospects. The Cadets matured while the Middies were stymied by injuries. The season's experience benefits the Army most and gives the Cadets the edge. Anderson and Dawkins to shine. This one you can see for yourself on TV Saturday.

Auburn over Alabama: The Auburn defense is too tough, but on Saturday it won't be anything like that 40-0 walkover of a year ago.

Texas over Texas A&M: You may watch this one Thursday afternoon while digesting your turkey. The Longhorns finish in high gear.

Pittsburgh over Penn State: Both lost to Nebraska, which won only three games all season. The home field gives Pitt the edge. A Thursday contest.

Air Force over Colorado: A fancy victory for the Air Force undoubtedly means a bowl bid. But the Flyer brass will have an anxious Saturday afternoon despite Brock Storm's stellar play.

Notre Dame over Southern California: That balmy California weather is just what the doctor ordered for George Izo's pitching arm. Another Saturday game.

Skipping over the others::

Brown over Colgate, Cincinnati over Miami (Ohio), Colorado State University over Denver, Penn over Cornell, Richmond over William and Mary, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Tulsa over Wichita, Utah over Utah State, Virginia Military over Virginia Tech.

SATURDAY

Tiger Grid Team Given Banquet By Fire Department

Members of the Wellsville High School varsity football team were feted at a banquet Tuesday night at the fire station by the Wellsville volunteer fire department.

Jack Phillips, secretary, was master of ceremonies. Guests included Ken Woods, head football coach, Jack McDevitt, head basketball coach, Supt. S. E. Daw, Principal William Menough and Charles Stone.

Woods complimented the squad for accomplishments during the season and pointed to a number of returning lettermen as brightening prospects for 1959.

Earl Mundy was in charge of the dinner. Movies were screened. George Hardman Jr., is president of the volunteers.

Blue And White Club Hears Reports On Party

Reports on East Liverpool High School's football party held Saturday night at the YMCA camp at Pine Ridge were presented by Don Burbick and William O'Neil, co-chairmen, when the Blue and White Nonpareil Club met Tuesday night in the YMCA. Fourteen attended.

Dick Forzano, membership co-chairman with Dick Waggle, reported this year's membership drive now totals 443 with a goal set at 500. H. A. Tullis, president, conducted business. The next meeting will be Tuesday night at 8 in the YMCA.

Thanksgiving Day Games Open Last Big Weekend Of College Grid Slate

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football goes into its last big weekend of the season Thursday with a handful of traditional Thanksgiving Day games that could provide a bowl boost for Pitt, Cincinnati, Miami (Ohio), Tulsa and Virginia Military.

Alabama, Clemson, Air Force, Georgia Tech and Southern Methodist get their final shots at bowl bids Saturday.

Only the Rose (Iowa vs. California) and Orange (Oklahoma vs. Syracuse) are set among the five major bowls. The Sugar has Louisiana State in hand and the Cotton has Texas Christian lined up, but each needs another team. The Gator Bowl needs a pair.

The Blue Grass Bowl, a newcomer, also needs two teams, while the Tangerine Bowl needs an opponent for Buffalo, which accepted a berth Tuesday.

Pitt, a prospect for both the Blue Grass and the Gator, goes against Penn State Thursday in the regular-season windup for both. Each has a 5-3-1 record.

Cincinnati and Miami (Ohio) both are under bowl consideration Cincinnati by the Blue Grass and Miami by the Tangerine. They play Thursday at Cincinnati.

In other games Thursday, it's the Texas A&M at Texas, VMI at Virginia Tech, Wichita at Tulsa, Colorado State U. at Denver, William and Mary at Richmond, Utah State at Utah, Cornell at Penn, Wake Forest at South Carolina and Colgate at Brown. The Texas-A&M game will be televised nationally.

Tulsa is on both the Tangerine and Blue Grass lists. VMI is among Tangerine Bowl possibles, along with Mississippi Southern, East Texas State and Florida State, the probable choice.

Saturday's big game is the Army-Navy brawl at Philadelphia. Notre Dame is at Southern Cal for their annual battle, and Oklahoma makes its final pre-Orange Bowl appearance in a game with state rival Oklahoma State.

Air Force plays Colorado, and the Falcons will announce their decision on the Cotton Bowl afterward. Alabama, a top choice by the Blue Grass committee, goes against unbeaten but bowl-banned Auburn. Georgia Tech shoots the works against Georgia. Clemson tries to nail the Sugar Bowl bid against Furman. Florida tries for the Blue Grass against Miami (Fla), and SMU makes its pitch for an upset against TCU and a trip to either the Sugar or Gator Bowl.

Paralyzed Roy Campanella Thankful Of Many Things

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Paralyzed Roy Campanella, facing the prospect of spending the remainder of his life in a wheel chair, called himself a lucky man today and said he had many things to be thankful for.

The former star catcher of baseball, who has slimmed down from 215 to 185 pounds after his long siege in the hospital as a result of his tragic automobile accident nearly 10 months ago, is back home.

Last Thanksgiving, robust and spry, he was eagerly looking forward to his move to Los Angeles with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Now, he puts in painful hours each day trying to rebuild his muscles in the hope that someday he may be able just to walk again.

Campy admits that day may never come but he hasn't lost hope and the warm and friendly smile that won so many friends for him is still on his thinned-down face.

"I keep telling myself how lucky I've been," he said. "I just keep thanking God I'm alive and I had a house and a family to come back to. Look at poor Mel Ott. He was in an automobile crackup too. He's dead. I'm only paralyzed. I said a little prayer for Mel and I sent him a wire but I guess he never got to read it."

Yes, Campy was home and he was happy. He no longer was burdened by the neck brace he had worn since last January when he underwent an operation on his broken neck. He is still paralyzed from the chest down, however, and he has to be lifted from his bed into the wheel chair. He has to be dressed and undressed. He is constantly attended by a male nurse. He needs an appliance on his hand to feed himself, to lift objects, to sign his name. He still has no movement in his fingers.

"Yes, I've got so many things to be thankful for," he said. "I'm thankful no member of my family was with me at the time of the accident. I'm thankful I've got all my sense. I'm thankful just to be home, surrounded by my family."

As Campy was talking, he kept caressing his 5-year-old daughter Princess, who was sitting on his lap, squealing delightedly while manipulating the battery-operated wheel chair for her daddy. Roy Jr., 10, and Tony, 8, two others of Campanella's six children, were running from room to room, playing a game of tag. Roy's wife Ruthe was busily engaged in the kitchen helping her mother prepare for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Roy's eyes glistened as he watched the activity.

"Look at the kids," he exclaimed. "They're not worried about me being in the wheel chair. 'Daddy's home.' That's all they care about. I have trouble keeping them out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're all in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

As Campy spoke he kept flexing his wrists, flailing his withered arms across his body, and raising them over his head. He kept pivoting his shoulders in quarter turns.

"I got to keep doing that to prevent a tightness of the muscles," he explained. "I still have no feeling in my legs but I know my insides are all right and I feel strong.

"It's a new life for me. I'm starting all over again. You learn to put up with a lot of things you'd ordinarily gripe about. Sometimes I wonder how long this might go on. But I get such thoughts out of my head quickly. You got to keep thinking good thoughts. Otherwise you could go nutty."

Roy's voice is vibrant now as it was before the accident. Except for his arms, which are painfully thin, he looks robust enough. He visits the Institute for Physical Rehabilitation three days a week and spends five hours a day lifting weights and exercising his muscles.

Celtics Rap Southern City On Racial Issue

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics threatened today to refuse to book any more National Basketball Assn. games in Charlotte, N. C., because of segregation practices in the Southern city.

"I don't care if we ever go back down there," said Celtics owner Walter Brown when advised that Negroes Bill Russell, K. C. Jones and Ben Swain had to live apart from the rest of the team in another hotel.

The Celtics defeated the Minneapolis Lakers Monday night during a "goodwill" trip to Charlotte.

Jockey Ted Atkinson has won the Pimlico Special three times—Capot, One - Hitter and Tom Fool — all for Greentree Stable.

Iowa, Auburn To Win Titles In Statistics

By The Associated Press

Bowl-bound Iowa and bowl-banned Auburn are virtually certain to grab a couple of college football's statistical championships this season. But eight of nine other major college team leaders must wait until the end of the campaign before they can claim titles.

Iowa, winner of the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl nomination, has a total offense average of 405.9 yards per game, according to NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today.

Army, in second place, has a 384.1 average and would have to amass 580 yards against Navy Saturday to catch the Hawkeyes. The Air Force Academy, third with 382.8 yards, would have to do even better against Colorado.

Auburn, defending champion in the total defense department, has yielded an average of 150.1 yards a game. Runner-up Purdue, its season over, gave up 176.7 yards and Army so far has yielded 178.8 a game.

Rutgers seems fairly sure to take the scoring title. The Scarlet has averaged 33.4 points a game on a 301-point total. Army, with a 30.3 average and Oklahoma with 30.2, would have to score 59 and 62 points, respectively, to draw even.

Oklahoma's 266.6 yard rushing average might be beaten by Penn State (258.4), Arizona State (254.2) or College of the Pacific (249.9).

The other leaders:

Passing offense — Army 175.6 yards per game. The Cadets need at least 125 air yards against Navy to stay ahead of Iowa, 170.0.

Rushing defense — Tulsa 78.0 yards a game; Auburn 78.2.

Pass defense — Iowa State, 39.0 yards a game, Brown, 41.5.

Punting — Georgia, 42.1 yard average, and Georgia Tech, 40.5, play each other.

Scoreboard defense — Louisiana State, 5.30 points a game, Oregon (5.33), Army (5.38) and Oklahoma (5.44).

Punt returns — Princeton, 16.5 yard average, Vanderbilt, 16.2.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

Last Saturday could very well be called "opening day' of the small game season. The weather was perfect, hunters were everywhere — and must have been well behaved, since I did not receive one complaint.

One of the sneakiest so - called sportsman is the trapper who insists on stealing fur out of another trapper's trap. Sometimes this type steals trap and all. I get many complaints about this.

Stealing does not come under my jurisdiction. One fellow asked me what he could do about it and I told him he could lay in wait and catch the thief, have him arrested for petty larceny, make him return the traps and stolen furs or just "clobber" him.

Each trapper should have a secret mark filed into his traps so he could readily identify them.

THE MEANEST thief is the one that steals traps from some farm boy trapping on his own farm.

Fur prices are low and some fur buyers won't buy raccoon pelts. Levi Fox, a fur - buyer in Salem, pays as much as 50 cents for large raccoon pelts and runs the risk of getting stuck with them.

Large muskrats bring 75 cents and No. 1 male mink $10. Top price for females is $5.

I asked Levi what he thought about Ohio beaver pelts and what they would bring on the market if we had an open season.

In his opinion $5 would be about the top price for large blanket pelts. At present, he said, Canadian blanket beavers are only bringing $10 to $12.

Beavers definitely have a place in the general pattern of wildlife, but I certainly get lots of complaints about them. Flooding lowlands and plugging up culverts are common offenses.

ANY LANDOWNER has the legal right to tear out their dams and keep tearing them out until they get discouraged and move on some place else. In this case you chase the trouble off your property while they become a nusiance on the other fellows premises.

When it comes to skinning a beaver, that is quite a task.

Every inch of the pelt has to be cut. You can't remove any part of the hide by pulling, like skinning other fur bearers.

With all the effort it takes to trap a beaver, skin it and scrape and scrape until you remove all the flesh, it would be a hard earned $5 if it were legal.

I can't help but wonder what the final outcome will be relative to beavers. They're not worth much, keep increasing in numbers and will have to be dealt with sooner or later.

Just mention the word "beaver" to game protectors in this section and they would start tearing out their hair if it would help.

Lisbon Has 4 Lettermen For 1958-59 Cage Season

Lisbon High's coach Jack Mills will launch his 14th consecutive basketball season at the Columbiana County school Dec. 9 with two regulars and two letter winners in the fold from last year's losing club.

The Mount Union grad figures this year's club will be long on experience, but will have a minimum of height and depth as graduation took most of the mainstays on the 1957 squad.

Returnees from the 5-12 outfit last year are Bob Pike, 6-feet, and Denny Reese, 5-feet, 9-inches, both seniors, in addition to Ron Lee, 5-feet, 10-inches, and Charles Faust, 6-feet, 2-inches, who lettered last year.

Graduation claimed six members of the 1957 squad, including Curtis Nicholson, a 6-5 center, Ralph Lee, Dick Koffel, Bill Minton, Glen Koffel and Ed Brooks. Although posting a losing season, the Blue Devils of 1957 fared well in the tournament grind, making it as far as the sectionals before losing to Youngstown Rayen.

In addition to the two regulars and the pair of letter winners, Mills has other top varsity candidates in Chal Thorne and Don Rudibaugh, a newcomer, both seniors, and Jim Tanner, Tom Brooks and Paul McGaffic, up from the reserve squad.

Sophomores Steve Frew, Paul Fry and Dick Early also are varsity candidates.

Faust, Rudibaugh and Pike, all experienced and rangy, are being counted on for most of the scoring. Lee, although one of the shortest on the squad, is fast and was one of last year's playmakers.

Paul McLaughlin, a 6-feet, 1-inch junior, can add height to the starting lineup along with Jim Tanner, a 6-foot junior.

Losing seasons have been the exception with Mills in his career at Lisbon, as his squads have managed to win at least a dozen games each season for the past several years.

Mills, who was an All-City selection while attending Youngstown South High School, is being assisted this year by a former protege, Gary Pike. Pike was an All Tri-County player while performing for Lisbon High and is a graduate of Muskingum College.

Hawks Defeated For First Time Under Macauley

By The Associated Press

Easy Ed Macauley may only have been joking. But he had good reason to be serious today.

The new coach of the St. Louis Hawks, who replaced Andy Phillip last week, spoke at a luncheon in New York Tuesday.

Addressing his remarks to Ned Irish, president of the New York Knickerbockers, Macauley said:

"You hired Fuzzy Levane after he had been dropped by the Hawks. You might have to make room for me. I could be next."

Macauley's comment was an obvious reference to St. Louis owner Ben Kerner, who changes National Basketball Assn. coaches almost as often as Frank Lane switches ballplayers.

Tuesday night, Macauley pleaded with his players, stomped his feet and yelled at the referees. But it was to no avail as the Hawks dropped a 106-105 verdict to the Philadelhia Warriors in the opener of a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden.

It was the first loss for the Hawks under Macauley after two victories.

The Cincinnati Royals snapped New York's eight-game winning streak 115-113 in the Garden nightcap. In the other game on the league slate, the Minneapolis Lakers edged the Detroit Pistons 98-90.

Olson TKO's Young In 6th

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Chalk up another one sided victory for Bobo Olson, a hungry former middleweight champion now fighting as a light-heavy.

Bobo pounded Paddy Young into submission in six rounds Tuesday night. Referee Jack Downey went over to pug nose Paddy's corner after the sixth and was told by the seconds the New Yorker had had enough.

After the fight, each boxer said the other hit much harder than when they fought five years ago for the American middleweight title. Bobo won that one, too.

Young, four pounds lighter than the San Franciscan's 174, was covered with blood from a cut right eye, suffered in the opening round, a nose bleed in the second and a split left eyebrow in the fifth.

Under California rules, the fight goes into the record book as Olson's 32nd knockout. Young had been stopped only three times before in 10 years.

Lions, Packers To Tangle In TV Battle Thursday

DETROIT (AP) — A nationwide television audience will get a chance to see the defending world champion Detroit Lions in action Thanksgiving Day, and Coach George Wilson is encouraging comment from the fans.

"If any of them see what's wrong with the Lions this year, I hope they'll let me in on it," said the Lions' head coach.

The bottom has dropped out of the Lions this season. Atfer winning the world championship in dramatic, come from-behind style in last season's stretch drive, the Lions have had just about everything go against them this year.

"I've always said you have to be real lucky in this league," Wilson added. "This season just proves I'm right. Last year, we were getting all the breaks, and we took advantage of them and won the close ones. This year, the ball has bounced the other way. We can't seem to do anything right — not for very long at a stretch, anyway."

The Lions, 3-5-1 for the season, meet the Green Bay Packers Thursday in the traditional Thanksgiving Day clash at Briggs Stadium.

Game time is 12 noon, and Detroit is favored. The Packers, who have only one victory in nine games, battled the Lions to a 13-13 tie earlier this year in Green Bay.

Banks Voted As National League's Most Valuable Player

Mays Is 2nd, Aaron Third, Thomas 4th

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) —Home run king Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs had plenty of bad news for opposing pitchers today after winning the National League's Most Valuable Player award for 1958.

"I've just come upon this knack of hitting home runs," said the young slugger, who crashed 47 homers to shatter his major league record for shortstops.

Banks, whose homer output and 129 runs batted in topped both major leagues, was an overwhelming choice for MVP in the vote counting Tuesday by the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America.

Named on every ballot, he polled 16 of the 24 first-place votes cast by writers in the eight National League cities and piled up 283 points, the highest total since Willie Mays won the MVP in 1954.

Mays, the only other player listed on every ballot, drew three first-place votes and 185 points for his tremendous efforts for the San Francisco Giants last season.

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, the 1957 MVP, was third with 166 points, followed by Frank Thomas, Pittsburgh Pirates, with 143, and southpaw Warren Spahn, Braves, with 108.

Banks, 27, said he was surprised by his selection and called the honor "a hard one to get for there certainly are a lot of valuable players around besides me."

A veteran of five full seasons with the Cubs, he said he figures he has "a lot of years ahead of me."

"I think my peak as a player is yet to come," said the 6-foot, 180-pounder.

Banks said he believes Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in a season will be broken. But, he added, "I don't know if I will be the one to do it, or even come close."

Banks joined Marty Marion, former St. Louis great, as the only shortstop to win the MVP award since the baseball writers took over the voting in 1931. Marion won in the war year of 1944 although he batted only .267, hit six homers and drove in 63 runs.

One of the surprises in the voting was the 12th-place finish of Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' three-time MVP winner who gathered but 39 points.

Colts' Moore One Of Pro Loop's Top Pass Receivers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lenny Moore is the lonesome halfback for the Baltimore Colts. Opponents trying to keep company with him have been finding it a trifle fast.

The gangling halfback has become one of the most feared pass receivers in his third season in the National Football League.

He's caught 37 for 809 yards and 6 touchdowns. Only Del Shofner of Los Angeles has gained more — 15 yards — and his own teammate Ray Berry's 7 touchdowns are highest in the league.

The Rams last Sunday tried putting two men on Moore whose favorite starting point is away out on the right flank. Moore got away from his two defenders seven times and one touchdown. He gained a total of 162 yards on his receptions.

Moore broke into pro football with a bang in 1956 after starring at Penn State. The "Reading Rocket" ran for 649 yards.

Last season, he began to evolve as a great pass catcher, taking in 40 for 687 yards to be fifth among the league receivers.

As he became a real two-way threat, Moore has run less than as a rookie. He has gained only 392 by rushing in the nine games to date.

But he can still go on his long legs which prompted one observer to quip, "They seem to go all the way up to his armpits." He has run for six touchdowns to give him an even dozen, second highest in the circuit.

Akins-Jordan Sign For Dec. 5 Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both fighters exuded confidence at the formal signing Tuesday for the Virgil Akins-Don Jordan welterweight title fight to be staged in Olympic Auditorium Dec. 5.

Said Champion Akins: "Don's a nice fighter, but I'm not expecting any trouble."

From the challenger: "I've never been knocked out in six years of pro fighting and I don't expect to be stopped in my big chance."

Named Ohio U. MVP

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Bob Brooks of Winchester, Ky., was named Ohio University's most valuable football player at the annual fall sports banquet Tuesday night. Brooks, a 195-pound sophomore fullback was the Bobcats leading ground gainer this season.

Jockey Sammy Boulmetis, born near Pimlico racetrack in 1927, first saw the track as a youngster while selling papers.

Dial, Rice End, Named As 'Lineman Of Week'

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Buddy Dial, the swift, hard-tackling Rice end, won't be making a return visit to the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day to star as he did in a losing cause against Navy last Jan. 1.

But he'll have the consolation of knowing he was picked as Lineman of the Week today by The Associated Press for playing his greatest game against this year's host.

Dial's performance in a 21-10 losing cause to Texas Christian last Saturday earned him Lineman of the Week honors in the weekly AP poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

TCU's victory gained it the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl host spot against an opponent yet to be named. But the Horned Frogs came away from their victory at Houston racing about the rangy Dial and his defensive acrobatics.

His offensive play didn't hurt him either. The 6 foot 1, 185 pound senior from Magnolia, Texas caught two passes. One was a 21-yard pass from quarterback Jon Schnable for Rice's only touchdown.

His two receptions set a new school record of 65 passes caught in one year, and Dial still has a game to go Saturday against Baylor. The old record was 64 set by Billy Howton, now with the Green Bay Packers, in 1951.

His TD pass leaves him one shy of Froggie Williams career mark of 13, made in four years of varsity competition. Dial has only three.

Jim Sherburn of North Texas State drew a top nomination for his play as linebackers in sparking North Texas' 21-10 victory over Louisville. Wichita guard Larry Stoelizing was also nominated.

Dartmouth guard Bob Boye, voted the outstanding lineman in the Princeton - Dartmouth game Saturday, drew the nod of some Eastern writers and broadcasters.

Other nominees: Jerry Donohue, Iowa State tackle; Sherrill, Hendrich, Texas Christian guard; Henry Christopher, Southern Methodist end; Billy Hilbon, Arkansas Guard, and E. J. Holub, Texas Tech center.

Duncan, White, Houston Top Midwest's All-America Bids

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Randy Duncan of Iowa's new Big Ten champions and fullback Bob White and end Jim Houston of Ohio State's dethroned titlists topped the Midwest's All-America bidding today.

Duncan was a unanimous choice of the Associated Press' area selection board, while White and Houston, who collaborated to help Ohio State hand Iowa its only defeat of the season, were not far behind.

Actually, this upside-down grid campaign had the screening board scratching its head, so widely distributed was this section's talent. The board came up with no fewer than 52 candidates for the AP's first three All-America teams.

Duncan had to be a superb performer all the way, leading Iowa to the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid, to stave off such other Midwest quarterbacks as Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin, Western Conference runnerup, and sterling sophomore Dick Thornton of surprising Northwestern.

At end and fullback, the Midwest was glutted with fine players this fall. White, a demon ball carrier for the Buckeyes, was hard-pressed at fullback by Purdue's Bob Jarus and Notre Dame's Nick Pietrosante.

Although Houston is rated the finest end in Ohio State history, he was challenged by such talented wingmen as Rich Kreitling, Illinois' stunning pass - grabber; Sammy Williams, a magnificent performer for lack-luster Michigan State; Monty Stickles, a Notre Dame nifty; and Tom Franckhauser, a stalwart on a fine Purdue club.

2 Of Pro Grid's Top Placekickers To Clash Sunday

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two of professional football's top placekicking specialists—Lou Groza and Sam Baker—will oppose each other in Sunday's tilt at Municipal Stadium between the Cleveland Browns and the Washington Redskins.

Groza, a veteran of 13 seasons with Cleveland, and the Redskins' Baker tied last year for the National Football League's scoring record. Each had 77 points.

Only two points separate the two this season. Baker has 52 points scored on 11 field goals and 19 extra points. Groza has kicked 29 extra points and seven field goals for 50 points.

If next Sunday's game follows the pattern of the Browns - Redskins meeting of two weeks ago Groza and Baker will see plenty of action.

Baker booted a 35-yard field field goal in the second quarter to put Washington ahead 10-7.

Groza retaliated in the same quarter with a 10-yard kick that tied the score.

It wasn't until the final two minutes that another point was scored when Groza connected from 26 yards out.

The Browns scored a touchdown as the game ended for a 20-10 victory.

Pro Grid Bowl Players Voted Raise In Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sixty of the greatest players in the National Football League today were voted a raise in pay for their appearance in the Pro Bowl game here Jan. 11.

General Manager Paul Schussler announced that the players on the winning team will get $800 apiece, the loser $700 a hike of $100 from previous years. The players, selected from the Eastern and Western divisions, also get an all-expense stay in Los Angeles for two weeks.

Although jockey Bill Hartack had one losing streak of 19 straight Hialeah mounts the native of Colver, Pa., scored 49 victories to lead the riders for the third straight season last winter.

5 Passers Waging Battle For Honors In Pro League

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — While Jim Brown's record breaking rushing performance has held the limelight in the National Football League, five passers have been having a battle for league honors in their specialty.

Eddie Lebaron of the Washington Redskins still has the best average gain per passing attempt, 9.02 yards, according to NFL statistics released today. But for actual yards gained, Bill Wade of the Los Angeles Rams is the leader with 2,214, more than double Lebaron's output.

John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts, who missed two games because of injuries, still has tossed the most touchdown passes, 14, and has had only three of his 167 pass attempts intercepted.

John Brodie of San Francisco has the best completion average, 59.2 per cent of his 147 tosses.

The Philadelphia Eagles held Brown, fullback of the Cleveland Browns, to only 66 yards by rushing last Sunday but it increased his league record for the season to 1,229 yards. His nearest competitor is fullback Alan Ameche of Baltimore with 607 yards. Brown's average of 6.2 yards per carry for 199 rushes is topped only by teammate Bob Mitchell with 6.5, but on only 79 attempts.

Brown failed to score and has 17 touchdowns, one short of another league record, for a total of 102 points. Second in the scoring race is Lenny Moore of Baltimore with 72.

Pete Retzlaff of the Eagles has caught the most passes, 43. But Del Shofner, who is second with 40 catches, has gained the most yards, 824. Ray Berry of Baltimore has caught the most TD passes, 7.

Other league leaders are Sam Baker, Washington, punting 45.9 yard average; Jon Arnett, Los Angeles, punt returns 14.1 yard average; Len Lyles, Baltimore, kickoff returns, 40.8 yard average, and Andy Nelson, interceptions, 8 for 199 yards. Jim Patton of the New York Giants also has eight but returned them only 111 yards.

Big 10 To Favor Rose Bowl Despite Coast Loop Breakup

CHICAGO (AP) — The Pacific Coast Conference dissolves as such next July 1, but there is reason to believe the Rose Bowl will continue as the grandpappy of football bowl games with the Big Ten represented.

The Big Ten, it was learned today, will announce at its December meetings that the 1960 Rose Bowl will go on as scheduled, despite the breakup of the PCC, and a Big Ten team will be there.

There is no chance of the Big Ten going to another bowl game under contractual agreements such as the hookup it has had with the PCC for the last dozen years.

"It's the Rose Bowl or nothing for us," said a conference spokesman.

From the remnants of the PCC, which split over recruiting charges, countercharges and varying degrees of disciplinary action taken, has emerged the Big Four, or Big Five, made up of California, UCLA, Southern California, Washington and later possibly Stanford.

The Big Ten hopes that no totally new Rose Bowl contract will be needed to continue business with the new group and Tournament of Roses Committee. It prefers an updating of the current agreement based on the formality of knocking out any clauses pertaining to the PCC and inserting the new conference.

Dial, Rice End, Named As 'Lineman Of Week'

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Buddy Dial, the swift, hard-tackling Rice end, won't be making a return visit to the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day to star as he did in a losing cause against Navy last Jan. 1.

But he'll have the consolation of knowing he was picked as Lineman of the Week today by The Associated Press for playing his greatest game against this year's host.

Dial's performance in a 21-10 losing cause to Texas Christian last Saturday earned him Lineman of the Week honors in the weekly AP poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

TCU's victory gained it the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl host spot against an opponent yet to be named. But the Horned Frogs came away from their victory at Houston racing about the rangy Dial and his defensive acrobatics.

His offensive play didn't hurt him either. The 6 foot 1, 185 pound senior from Magnolia, Texas caught two passes. One was a 21-yard pass from quarterback Jon Schnable for Rice's only touchdown.

His two receptions set a new school record of 65 passes caught in one year, and Dial still has a game to go Saturday against Baylor. The old record was 64 set by Billy Howton, now with the Green Bay Packers, in 1951.

His TD pass leaves him one shy of Froggie Williams career mark of 13, made in four years of varsity competition. Dial has only three.

Jim Sherburn of North Texas State drew a top nomination for his play as linebackers in sparking North Texas' 21-10 victory over Louisville. Wichita guard Larry Stoelizing was also nominated.

Dartmouth guard Bob Boye, voted the outstanding lineman in the Princeton - Dartmouth game Saturday, drew the nod of some Eastern writers and broadcasters.

Other nominees: Jerry Donohue, Iowa State tackle; Sherrill, Hendrich, Texas Christian guard; Henry Christopher, Southern Methodist end; Billy Hilbon, Arkansas Guard, and E. J. Holub, Texas Tech center.

Duncan, White, Houston Top Midwest's All-America Bids

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Randy Duncan of Iowa's new Big Ten champions and fullback Bob White and end Jim Houston of Ohio State's dethroned titlists topped the Midwest's All-America bidding today.

Duncan was a unanimous choice of the Associated Press' area selection board, while White and Houston, who collaborated to help Ohio State hand Iowa its only defeat of the season, were not far behind.

Actually, this upside-down grid campaign had the screening board scratching its head, so widely distributed was this section's talent. The board came up with no fewer than 52 candidates for the AP's first three All-America teams.

Duncan had to be a superb performer all the way, leading Iowa to the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid, to stave off such other Midwest quarterbacks as Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin, Western Conference runnerup, and sterling sophomore Dick Thornton of surprising Northwestern.

At end and fullback, the Midwest was glutted with fine players this fall. White, a demon ball carrier for the Buckeyes, was hard-pressed at fullback by Purdue's Bob Jarus and Notre Dame's Nick Pietrosante.

Although Houston is rated the finest end in Ohio State history, he was challenged by such talented wingmen as Rich Kreitling, Illinois' stunning pass - grabber; Sammy Williams, a magnificent performer for lack-luster Michigan State; Monty Stickles, a Notre Dame nifty; and Tom Franckhauser, a stalwart on a fine Purdue club.

Colts' Moore One Of Pro Loop's Top Pass Receivers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lenny Moore is the lonesome halfback for the Baltimore Colts. Opponents trying to keep company with him have been finding it a trifle fast.

The gangling halfback has become one of the most feared pass receivers in his third season in the National Football League.

He's caught 37 for 809 yards and 6 touchdowns. Only Del Shofner of Los Angeles has gained more — 15 yards — and his own teammate Ray Berry's 7 touchdowns are highest in the league.

The Rams last Sunday tried putting two men on Moore whose favorite starting point is away out on the right flank. Moore got away from his two defenders seven times and one touchdown. He gained a total of 162 yards on his receptions.

Moore broke into pro football with a bang in 1956 after starring at Penn State. The "Reading Rocket" ran for 649 yards.

Last season, he began to evolve as a great pass catcher, taking in 40 for 687 yards to be fifth among the league receivers.

As he became a real two-way threat, Moore has run less than as a rookie. He has gained only 392 by rushing in the nine games to date.

But he can still go on his long legs which prompted one observer to quip, "They seem to go all the way up to his armpits." He has run for six touchdowns to give him an even dozen, second highest in the circuit.

Akins-Jordan Sign For Dec. 5 Title Bout

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both fighters exuded confidence at the formal signing Tuesday for the Virgil Akins-Don Jordan welterweight title fight to be staged in Olympic Auditorium Dec. 5.

Said Champion Akins: "Don's a nice fighter, but I'm not expecting any trouble."

From the challenger: "I've never been knocked out in six years of pro fighting and I don't expect to be stopped in my big chance."

Named Ohio U. MVP

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Bob Brooks of Winchester, Ky., was named Ohio University's most valuable football player at the annual fall sports banquet Tuesday night. Brooks, a 195-pound sophomore fullback was the Bobcats leading ground gainer this season.

Jockey Sammy Boulmetis, born near Pimlico racetrack in 1927, first saw the track as a youngster while selling papers.

color guard. James Allison of the Jaycees will serve as parade marshal. Representatives of ELMA and the Jaycees will ride in the vanguard of the parade. Ed Adkins, first vice president, will represent the Jaycees and William Kozel, president, will represent the merchants' association.

Colored lights spanning downtown streets will be turned on for the first time Saturday night. Stores will remain open until 8:30 p. m. to allow the parade crowd plenty of time to look over new Christmas merchandise.

The parade will be staged by Jean Gros, Inc., of Pittsburgh, which presents similar holiday spectacles in major U. S. cities. Groups In Industry Area Oppose Mail Route Change

The Ohio View Community Club, the Industry Township Board of Supervisors and the Industry Township Planning Board met jointly Monday night to discuss a proposed plan of the Beaver Post Office to take over part of the mail delivery in the Ohio View-Industry area.

The Beaver office was to begin delivering mail Saturday to patrons from Barclay Hill Rd. west on the Beaver - Midland Rd. through and including Ohio View to the chemical tank line depot in Industry Heights. It was announced last night that the plan was postponed, mainly because of the Christmas rush, until the first of the year.

The change is designed to relieve Hugh Graham, who presently delivers to Industry Township, Ohio View and part of Ohio Township, of part of his work load.

Residents in the area are opposed to the change as a shift in the present mail service would entail a large number of changes in address, it was said.

The present mailing address of all patrons on Graham's route is Industry R. D. 1. Under the change, their address would become Beaver R. D. 1. Area patrons complain that their mail might then be confused with that of Beaver residents.

As an alternative, it was suggested that a building or room be procured in Ohio View for a post office. This would relieve Graham's work load, since some 400 patrons in Ohio View, to whom he now delivers, could pick up their mail.

It was pointed out that the present Post Office in Industry Township is not centrally located and is situated on the Beaver-Midland Rd. at a spot where it is difficult to park to pick up the mail.

If the proposal is adopted, it would probably mean that the Industry Township Post Office would be closed, according to Miss Margaret Knight, postmaster.

The proposed change is based on a survey by the Beaver Post Office.

Guy Lang, secretary to the Industry Township board, reported he had contacted Rep. Frank Clark, requesting another survey.

Harold Miller, district Post Office co-ordinator from New Castle, explained why the proposed change should be made.

Groups In Industry Area Oppose Mail Route Change

The Ohio View Community Club, the Industry Township Board of Supervisors and the Industry Township Planning Board met jointly Monday night to discuss a proposed plan of the Beaver Post Office to take over part of the mail delivery in the Ohio View-Industry area.

The Beaver office was to begin delivering mail Saturday to patrons from Barclay Hill Rd. west on the Beaver - Midland Rd. through and including Ohio View to the chemical tank line depot in Industry Heights. It was announced last night that the plan was postponed, mainly because of the Christmas rush, until the first of the year.

The change is designed to relieve Hugh Graham, who presently delivers to Industry Township, Ohio View and part of Ohio Township, of part of his work load.

Residents in the area are opposed to the change as a shift in the present mail service would entail a large number of changes in address, it was said.

The present mailing address of all patrons on Graham's route is Industry R. D. 1. Under the change, their address would become Beaver R. D. 1. Area patrons complain that their mail might then be confused with that of Beaver residents.

As an alternative, it was suggested that a building or room be procured in Ohio View for a post office. This would relieve Graham's work load, since some 400 patrons in Ohio View, to whom he now delivers, could pick up their mail.

It was pointed out that the present Post Office in Industry Township is not centrally located and is situated on the Beaver-Midland Rd. at a spot where it is difficult to park to pick up the mail.

If the proposal is adopted, it would probably mean that the Industry Township Post Office would be closed, according to Miss Margaret Knight, postmaster.

The proposed change is based on a survey by the Beaver Post Office.

Guy Lang, secretary to the Industry Township board, reported he had contacted Rep. Frank Clark, requesting another survey.

Harold Miller, district Post Office co-ordinator from New Castle, explained why the proposed change should be made.

Parking will be banned along the parade route after noon Saturday, police warned.

Forming on E. 4th St., the parade will move up Broadway to E. 5th St., then west on 5th St. to Jefferson St., north to 6th St., east on 6th St. to Walnut St. and then south to E. 4th St., where it will disband.

Secretary Benson Urged It

U.S. Farmers Vote To End Curbs On Corn Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers voted in a referendum Tuesday to end 25-year-old government production controls on corn, the nation's largest single crop.

This was the first time since before World War II that growers of a major crop have turned thumbs down on federal restrictions as a measure for stabilizing production.

This politically significant action had been urged by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a part of his controversial programs for reducing the government's role in agriculture.

Preliminary returns from 25 of the 26 major corn states in which balloting was conducted gave 246,475 votes to end federal restrictions and 100,064 to retain them. The other state—North Dakota—was delayed by adverse weather in tabulating its votes.

The results were expected to strengthen the Eisenhower administration's hands in dealing with the new Democrat-controlled Congress on future farm legislation. The voting came on the heels of recent congressional and state elections in which Republicans lost ground in farming areas.

The vote to abandon corn controls may well encourage the administration to sponsor plans to ease if not end restrictions on other crops, such as wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

For consumers, the increased corn supplies and lower support prices could mean larger supplies and lower prices for meat, poultry and dairy products.

Under the old program, planting allotments were assigned growers in a designated commercial area. Those complying were eligible for price supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Under the new program, there will be no allotments. All corn will be eligible for supports at 90 per cent of the average market price of corn during the three preceding years, but not less than 65 per cent of parity.

Officials estimate that supports next year will average between $1.12 and $1.15 a bushel. Under the control program, the average would have been between $1.24 and $1.27.

Less than a fourth of the eligible growers voted in the referendum.

Although controls had been in effect during recent years, only a small portion of the growers had complied with them. Most growers preferred to grow more, even if that meant lower prices and forfeiture of price supports.

corn prices at 75-90 per cent of parity but imposes acreage allotments on those participating in the program.

The vote in the 71 Ohio counties eligible under Department of Agriculture regulations defining major corn growing areas was 14,396 in favor of the new program and 4,179 in favor of the present program.

In only three counties—Adams, Brown and Vinton—did the vote in favor of the present support program carry.

The Agriculture Department said the number of farmers voting Tuesday was only 10 per cent of those eligible.

The voting was part of a nationwide referendum which will decide the Agriculture Department's program for 1959 and subsequent years.

Columbiana County farmers voted 187 for and 13 against the change of corn allotments in the referndum conducted in the various townships Tuesday, following the state trend.

Farmers In County Back State Corn Trend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers have endorsed an Eisenhower backed proposal to end acreage allotments on corn growing.

A light turnout of farmers voted Tuesday to adopt a new program that would put support prices at the average of the preceding three years but not less than 60 per cent of parity.

Said bids will be promptly considered by the Council of said City.

Said bonds shall be dated the first day of December, 1958, shall all be in the denomination of $1,000 each, shall be numbered consecutively commencing with Number 1, shall draw interest payable semi-annually on the first day of June and the first day of December of each year, beginning June 1, 1959, at the rate of four per centum per annum, but anyone desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-quarter of one per cent or multiples thereof.

Said bonds shall mature as follows: $10,000 on December 1 in each year from 1960 to 1979, inclusive.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of paying part of the cost of improving and extending the municipal sewerage system; and are supported by limited taxes.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of said highest bids as is chosen by the said Auditor by lot. All bids must be accompanied by a bond or certified check on a solvent bank (other than the bidder) payable to the City of East Liverpool in the amount of one per cent of the par amount of the bonds bid for, upon condition that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds within a reasonable time after the award thereof or forfeit the same as liquidated damages in the event said condition is not fulfilled.

In the event the interest on said bonds should by act of Congress become subject to Federal Income Taxes prior to delivery, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bond or certified check shall be returned without interest.

It is contemplated that said Council of the City will meet at seven o'clock p. m. on the 4th day of December, 1958, to consider said bids and make an award.

The right is reserved to reject bids.

Secretary Benson Urged It

U.S. Farmers Vote To End Curbs On Corn Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers voted in a referendum Tuesday to end 25-year-old government production controls on corn, the nation's largest single crop.

This was the first time since before World War II that growers of a major crop have turned thumbs down on federal restrictions as a measure for stabilizing production.

This politically significant action had been urged by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a part of his controversial programs for reducing the government's role in agriculture.

Preliminary returns from 25 of the 26 major corn states in which balloting was conducted gave 246,475 votes to end federal restrictions and 100,064 to retain them. The other state—North Dakota—was delayed by adverse weather in tabulating its votes.

The results were expected to strengthen the Eisenhower administration's hands in dealing with the new Democrat-controlled Congress on future farm legislation. The voting came on the heels of recent congressional and state elections in which Republicans lost ground in farming areas.

The vote to abandon corn controls may well encourage the administration to sponsor plans to ease if not end restrictions on other crops, such as wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

The net effect of the referendum was a grower acceptance of lower government price supports for the right to grow all the corn they wish.

For consumers, the increased corn supplies and lower support prices could mean larger supplies and lower prices for meat, poultry and dairy products.

Under the old program, planting allotments were assigned growers in a designated commercial area. Those complying were eligible for price supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Under the new program, there will be no allotments. All corn will be eligible for supports at 90 per cent of the average market price of corn during the three preceding years, but not less than 65 per cent of parity.

Officials estimate that supports next year will average between $1.12 and $1.15 a bushel. Under the control program, the average would have been between $1.24 and $1.27.

Less than a fourth of the eligible growers voted in the referendum.

Although controls had been in effect during recent years, only a small portion of the growers had complied with them. Most growers preferred to grow more, even if that meant lower prices and forfeiture of price supports.

corn prices at 75-90 per cent of parity but imposes acreage allotments on those participating in the program.

The vote in the 71 Ohio counties eligible under Department of Agriculture regulations defining major corn growing areas was 14,396 in favor of the new program and 4,179 in favor of the present program.

In only three counties—Adams, Brown and Vinton—did the vote in favor of the present support program carry.

The Agriculture Department said the number of farmers voting Tuesday was only 10 per cent of those eligible.

The voting was part of a nationwide referendum which will decide the Agriculture Department's program for 1959 and subsequent years.

Columbiana County farmers voted 187 for and 13 against the change of corn allotments in the referndum conducted in the various townships Tuesday, following the state trend.

Farmers In County Back State Corn Trend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers have endorsed an Eisenhower backed proposal to end acreage allotments on corn growing.

A light turnout of farmers voted Tuesday to adopt a new program that would put support prices at the average of the preceding three years but not less than 60 per cent of parity.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Sealed bids will be received by the undersigned, Auditor of the City of East Liverpool, Columbiana County, Ohio, at his office in the City Hall, East Liverpool, until 12 o'clock noon Eastern Standard Time, on the 4th day of December, 1958, at which time said bids will be publicly opened and read, for the purchase of bonds of said City in the aggregate amount of $200,000.

Said bids will be promptly considered by the Council of said City.

Said bonds shall be dated the first day of December, 1958, shall all be in the denomination of $1,000 each, shall be numbered consecutively commencing with Number 1, shall draw interest payable semi-annually on the first day of June and the first day of December of each year, beginning June 1, 1959, at the rate of four per centum per annum, but anyone desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-quarter of one per cent or multiples thereof.

Said bonds shall mature as follows: $10,000 on December 1 in each year from 1960 to 1979, inclusive.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of paying part of the cost of improving and extending the municipal sewerage system; and are supported by limited taxes.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of said highest bids as is chosen by the said Auditor by lot. All bids must be accompanied by a bond or certified check on a solvent bank (other than the bidder) payable to the City of East Liverpool in the amount of one per cent of the par amount of the bonds bid for, upon condition that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds within a reasonable time after the award thereof or forfeit the same as liquidated damages in the event said condition is not fulfilled.

Bids shall be sealed and endorsed "Bid for Sewerage System Improvement Bonds".

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, Bond Attorneys, Cleveland, Ohio, whose approving opinion together with a complete transcript of proceedings and the printed bonds will be furnished by the City, together with a certificate showing no litigation pending or threatened at the time of the delivery, to enjoin delivery or to contest the validity of the bonds or the power to issue them or the levy of taxes for their payment.

In the event the interest on said bonds should by act of Congress become subject to Federal Income Taxes prior to delivery, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bond or certified check shall be returned without interest.

It is contemplated that said Council of the City will meet at seven o'clock p. m. on the 4th day of December, 1958, to consider said bids and make an award.

The right is reserved to reject bids.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Neurosis For Fun And Profit

Wayne and Shuster, the Canadian comics, were on the march again last week and I must say they were mighty, mighty funny in a long, long sketch about a guy who gets hooked by television watching.

John Crosby

The idea of this caper was that TV watching was more habit - forming and, on the whole, worse for you than heroin. This pair of comics, when they get hold of an idea, elaborate it in all directions with plot and settings and a beginning, middle and an end.

I find this sort of thing engaging, largely because no one else is doing it. No one except Sid Caesar ever did sketches that were as careful and pretentious. Their humor is generally about something and it has a deadpan pertinence that is wonderfully pointed and funny.

RIGHT ON THEIR heels, Sid Caesar appeared on the Dinah Shore show, in what was billed as his first guest appearance, and he was mighty funny, too, in a long-ish sketch about a gangster romance in the '20s.

This sounded like a takeoff on all the old gangster movies Warner Bros. ever made. I particularly liked the final curtain with Miss Shore, arms around the dead gangster (played by Caesar), crying, "Now maybe somebody will do something about slum clearance!"

Remember all that social significance we had to put up with in the '30s?

IN THE DECEMBER issue of Esquire, Ben Hecht engages in some hysterical adulation of Oscar Levant on the rather strange grounds that he is the only honest exhibitionist on television.

"I have never," he writes, "even as a reporter covering the Rock River religious conference in darkest Indiana, found anything so colic-inducing as the right-thinking and lovability of the popular idols of television.

"They invade our living rooms not only as storm troopers of platitudes but as victors all in some good behavior Olympics. To the actor's fear of losing a laugh or a fan letter have been added the advertising man's fear and the sponsor's fear of losing a single customer by a single wrong utterance."

WELL, I AGREE that Levant is a funny man and that his neuroses are mighty interesting, if in questionable taste. But to single out Levant as the only practicing exhibitionist on television shows a remarkable ignorance of the medium.

Where on earth have you been, Mr. Hecht? Virtually every comedian on television has sold a boiled-down version of his analysis to a national magazine.

Of course, the comedians have confined their self-revelation to the magazines and kept it off their television shows, but this was not reticence. It was just that on television exhibitionism doesn't have to be neurotic. They can be neurotic in the magazines.

I'm not sure I'd rather not keep the neuroses in the magazines, too. Far from being right-thinking and lovable, the popular idols are almost leaning too far the other way. I won't go so far as to say they're inventing these neuroses, but I've long suspected their press agents of fabricating them. It's almost as much as your career is worth to palm yourself off as well-adjusted in Hollywood these days.

"I'M A FREE-LANCE photographer. It's fun, money and people," says Mike Kovac, explaining his job on a show called "Man With a Camera."

Nat Fein, the New York Herald Tribune's Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer, already has complained that picture taking doesn't seem to be nearly as important to Kovac as "general devilment."

This show is in the fine old tradition of movie journalism where publishers topple empires and reporters do all the district attorney's work for him. But what bugs me about this adventure series is the bop dialogue of the malevolent characters Kovac encounters.

"Not once did any of 'em hustle me for any grab," says an ex-con, meaning the guys haven't tried to charge him money for protection.

"Why get salty, Dad? Cool it," exlaims another hipster to Kovac.

Club Hears Weirton Official

Transportation Role Told In Steelmaking Industry

Transportation's vital part in steelmaking was underscored by James E. Porter of the Weirton Steel Co. in a talk on "The Three R's of Steel Transportation"—rivers, rails and roads—at the Rotary Club's Tuesday luncheon in the Travelers Hotel.

Porter pointed out the exacting problems faced by the Hancock County plant in incorporating the three major methods of transportation to ship the Weirton firm's products across the globe with railroads listed as the most essential.

He also discussed and explained the complex system used by the Weirton plant in obtaining raw materials for steelmaking, tracing shipment of iron ores from a Labrador field, through the mill's various processing departments, and their emergence as a finished product ready for fabrication.

Situated on a 350-acre tract, the Weirton plant has 35 miles of railroads connecting the various operations into an interlocking unit, Porter explained.

Twenty diesel locomotives are included in the railway system, along with 4 cranes, 200 hoppers, 75 slab cars, 30 iron ladles, and 74 slag ladles, making transportation the largest single operating expense.

To maintain co-ordination and keep the firm's trains running on schedule, the locomotives are equipped with two - way radiophones, Porter explained, and work orders are received over phones from a centrally - located yard office.

Two of the locomotives have closed-circuit radiophones which operate between the locomotive and an ore car dumper, he said, making it possible to dump iron ore under complete blackout conditions.

As the Weirton plant is situated on the Ohio River, Porter said the firm "utilizes river transportation whenever possible." "One barge can carry as much as 15 railroad cars and transportation is cheaper in such large volume," he added.

River transportation carries 4 million gallons a month and also hauls scrap and coal. The company owns 100 river barges.

Weirton Steel formerly received iron ore from the Mesabi Range in Minnesota, but in 1949, National Steel began developing an ore field in Labrador for the present material.

Porter said that while the Labrador fields produced over 8 million tons in 1955, he expects that 10 million will be brought out each year in the future. Tonnage will be increased with the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and will make the Labrador field more important than ever.

Porter also touched on trucking and rail delivery between plants and the firm's river dock.

Following his address, Porter answered questions on steel transportation. He was introduced by John Thompson, program chairman. Dean Wilhelm, president, presided. A Board of Directors meeting followed.

Council To Say Jap Prince Will Wed Commoner

TOKYO (AP) — The Imperial Council is expected to announce Thursday that Crown Prince Akihito will marry a pretty commoner, Michiko Shoda, who he wooed and won largely by telephone.

After years of discreet guessing who the next empress will be, Japanese were told today that Akihito has picked his bride. An announcement said the Imperial Council will meet Thursday "to discuss matters concerning the marriage of the Crown Prince."

By law, the 10-member council has to approve the choice of a bride for Japan's imperial princes. It is expected to approve Miss Shoda, the daughter of the president of the Giant Nisshin Flour Co. She will be the first commoner in Japan's history to become the prospective empress.

Akihito, who will be 25 years old next month, met the 24-year-old girl at a tennis match 15 months ago. It was love at first sight, reports say.

School Dinner Set

SALINEVILLE — A turkey dinner for students and faculty will be held this afternoon in the school cafeteria, which is supervised by Mrs. Irene Ferguson and Mrs. Susie Leek.

Pittsburgh Bicentennial Fete To Open Thursday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 200-gun salute at the Point Thanksgiving Day will highlight opening of the Pittsburgh Bicentennial observance.

Officials said they will go ahead with the salute despite concern by builders of the new Hilton Hotel that the blast might crack concrete in the unfinished building.

A spokesman for the Bicentennial Assn. quoted military experts as terming completely negligible any chance of blast damage to the Hilton.

Control Bid Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. N. Nungesser, part owner of radio station WCHO, Washington Court House, Ohio, has been authorized by the Communications Commission to acquire control of the station through purchase of a 24.98 per cent interest from Ray Brandenburg, San Marting and L. Morse Weimer for $9,500. The purchase will give Nungesser a 57.34 per cent interest in the station.

No Firing, Nationalists Get Convoy To Quemoy

TAIPEI (AP)—The Nationalists took advantage of a no-shelling day and clearing weather today to send another supply convoy into Quemoy.

Two vessels crossed the Formosa Strait to deliver steel rods, cement and food to the Nationalist offshore island.

Opposite Quemoy, the Communists silenced their guns in keeping with their timetable of war every other day. Nationalist batteries also held their fire.

Next time you stew apples, add a stick of cinnamon for spicy flavor.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Neurosis For Fun And Profit

Wayne and Shuster, the Canadian comics, were on the march again last week and I must say they were mighty, mighty funny in a long, long sketch about a guy who gets hooked by television watching.

John Crosby

The idea of this caper was that TV watching was more habit - forming and, on the whole, worse for you than heroin. This pair of comics, when they get hold of an idea, elaborate it in all directions with plot and settings and a beginning, middle and an end.

I find this sort of thing engaging, largely because no one else is doing it. No one except Sid Caesar ever did sketches that were as careful and pretentious. Their humor is generally about something and it has a deadpan pertinence that is wonderfully pointed and funny.

RIGHT ON THEIR heels, Sid Caesar appeared on the Dinah Shore show, in what was billed as his first guest appearance, and he was mighty funny, too, in a longish sketch about a gangster romance in the '20s.

This sounded like a takeoff on all the old gangster movies Warner Bros. ever made. I particularly liked the final curtain with Miss Shore, arms around the dead gangster (played by Caesar), crying, "Now maybe somebody will do something about slum clearance!"

Remember all that social significance we had to put up with in the '30s?

IN THE DECEMBER issue of Esquire, Ben Hecht engages in some hysterical adulation of Oscar Levant on the rather strange grounds that he is the only honest exhibitionist on television.

"I have never," he writes, "even as a reporter covering the Rock River religious conference in darkest Indiana, found anything so colic-inducing as the right-thinking and lovability of the popular idols of television.

"They invade our living rooms not only as storm troopers of platitudes but as victors all in some good behavior Olympics. To the actor's fear of losing a laugh or a fan letter have been added the advertising man's fear and the sponsor's fear of losing a single customer by a single wrong utterance."

WELL, I AGREE that Levant is a funny man and that his neuroses are mighty interesting, if in questionable taste. But to single out Levant as the only practicing exhibitionist on television shows a remarkable ignorance of the medium.

Where on earth have you been, Mr. Hecht? Virtually every comedian on television has sold a boiled-down version of his analysis to a national magazine.

Of course, the comedians have confined their self-revelation to the magazines and kept it off their television shows, but this was not reticence. It was just that on television exhibitionism doesn't have to be neurotic. They can be neurotic in the magazines.

I'm not sure I'd rather not keep the neuroses in the magazines, too. Far from being right-thinking and lovable, the popular idols are almost leaning too far the other way. I won't go so far as to say they're inventing these neuroses, but I've long suspected their press agents of fabricating them. It's almost as much as your career is worth to palm yourself off as well-adjusted in Hollywood these days.

"I'M A FREE-LANCE photographer. It's fun, money and people," says Mike Kovac, explaining his job on a show called "Man With a Camera."

Nat Fein, the New York Herald Tribune's Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer, already has complained that picture taking doesn't seem to be nearly as important to Kovac as "general devilment."

This show is in the fine old tradition of movie journalism where publishers topple empires and reporters do all the district attorney's work for him. But what bugs me about this adventure series is the bop dialogue of the malevolent characters Kovac encounters.

"Not once did any of 'em hustle me for any grab," says an ex-con, meaning the guys haven't tried to charge him money for protection.

"Why get salty, Dad? Cool it," exlaims another hipster to Kovac.

The motives are questionable but at least the talk is decently unintelligible.

Transportation Role Told In Steelmaking Industry

Transportation's vital part in steelmaking was underscored by James E. Porter of the Weirton Steel Co. in a talk on "The Three R's of Steel Transportation"—rivers, rails and roads—at the Rotary Club's Tuesday luncheon in the Travelers Hotel.

Porter pointed out the exacting problems faced by the Hancock County plant in incorporating the three major methods of transportation to ship the Weirton firm's products across the globe with railroads listed as the most essential.

He also discussed and explained the complex system used by the Weirton plant in obtaining raw materials for steelmaking, tracing shipment of iron ores from a Labrador field, through the mill's various processing departments, and their emergence as a finished product ready for fabrication.

Situated on a 350-acre tract, the Weirton plant has 35 miles of railroads connecting the various operations into an interlocking unit, Porter explained.

Twenty diesel locomotives are included in the railway system, along with 4 cranes, 200 hoppers, 75 slab cars, 30 iron ladles, and 74 slag ladles, making transportation the largest single operating expense.

To maintain co-ordination and keep the firm's trains running on schedule, the locomotives are equipped with two - way radiophones, Porter explained, and work orders are received over phones from a centrally - located yard office.

Two of the locomotives have closed-circuit radiophones which operate between the locomotive and an ore car dumper, he said, making it possible to dump iron ore under complete blackout conditions.

As the Weirton plant is situated on the Ohio River, Porter said the firm "utilizes river transportation whenever possible." "One barge can carry as much as 15 railroad cars and transportation is cheaper in such large volume," he added.

River transportation carries 4 million gallons a month and also hauls scrap and coal. The company owns 100 river barges.

Weirton Steel formerly received iron ore from the Mesabi Range in Minnesota, but in 1949, National Steel began developing an ore field in Labrador for the present material.

Porter said that while the Labrador fields produced over 8 million tons in 1955, he expects that 10 million will be brought out each year in the future. Tonnage will be increased with the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and will make the Labrador field more important than ever.

Porter also touched on trucking and rail delivery between plants and the firm's river dock.

Following his address, Porter answered questions on steel transportation. He was introduced by John Thompson, program chairman. Dean Wilhelm, president, presided. A Board of Directors meeting followed.

Council To Say Jap Prince Will Wed Commoner

TOKYO (AP) — The Imperial Council is expected to announce Thursday that Crown Prince Akihito will marry a pretty commoner, Michiko Shoda, who he wooed and won largely by telephone.

After years of discreet guessing who the next empress will be, Japanese were told today that Akihito has picked his bride. An announcement said the Imperial Council will meet Thursday "to discuss matters concerning the marriage of the Crown Prince."

By law, the 10-member council has to approve the choice of a bride for Japan's imperial princes. It is expected to approve Miss Shoda, the daughter of the president of the Giant Nisshin Flour Co. She will be the first commoner in Japan's history to become the prospective empress.

Akihito, who will be 25 years old next month, met the 24-year-old girl at a tennis match 15 months ago. It was love at first sight, reports say.

Pittsburgh Bicentennial Fete To Open Thursday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 200-gun salute at the Point Thanksgiving Day will highlight opening of the Pittsburgh Bicentennial observance.

Officials said they will go ahead with the salute despite concern by builders of the new Hilton Hotel that the blast might crack concrete in the unfinished building.

A spokesman for the Bicentennial Assn. quoted military experts as terming completely negligible any chance of blast damage to the Hilton.

Control Bid Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. N. Morse Weimer for $9,500. The purchase will give Nungesser a 57.34 per cent interest in the station.

No Firing, Nationalists Get Convoy To Quemoy

TAIPEI (AP)—The Nationalists took advantage of a no-shelling day and clearing weather today to send another supply convoy into Quemoy.

Two vessels crossed the Formosa Strait to deliver steel rods, cement and food to the Nationalist offshore island.

Opposite Quemoy, the Communists silenced their guns in keeping with their timetable of war every other day. Nationalist batteries also held their fire.
